Youthful Thug Wields Knife, Binds Mother

With her baby in her arms, Victoria housewife Mrs. Beatrice Yates was menaced by a youth with a knife in her home last night and tied to a kitchen chair, she told police.

The youth escaped with $3 in loose cash, she said.

Mrs. Yates, 1716 Lee, whose husband is away at sea with the navy, freed herself 15 minutes later.

The youth, aged between 17 and 19, knocked at the back door shortly after Mrs. Yates reached home after shopping with the baby.

When she opened the door, with the baby in her arms, he walked straight in holding a large clasp knife, Mrs. Yates said.

He took the baby from her, still with the knife in his hand, and laid it in the nearby crib.

Then he motioned her to a chair and tied her to it with the baby's diapers.

He made her fasten a piece of sticking plaster over her mouth. Not once did he threaten her as to what he might do with the knife.

He scooped some loose cash into his pocket from the mantel-piece.

He also picked up one or two trinkets before hurrying off, Mrs. Yates told police.

After freeing herself Mrs. Yates called police from a neighbor's house.

Police over a wide area were alerted with the marauder's description.

Detective Tells Probe:

Call Girls Work Within the Law

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A veteran vice-squad detective said here Friday that a careful, independent call girl could operate without breaking the law.

Det. John Dyer, of the morality squad, was testifying at the 28th session of the royal commission investigating the administration and conduct of Vancouver's 750-man police force.

Under cross-examination by Jay Gould, counsel for Police Chief Walter Mulligan, Det. Dyer admitted that only a revision of the Criminal Code could break the call girl system, in which a prostitute is called by telephone to the customer.

"A carefully-operating call girl is committing no crime, is she?" Mr. Gould asked.

"If no one is living on the avails, she has her own list and only answers her own telephone on her own premises, she is breaking no law when she is paid by her prospective customer for what she does there?"

CONVICTIONS DIFFICULT

The detective agreed, he said he had been 20 years on the Vancouver force and found that recent changes in the Criminal Code of Canada had made it increasingly difficult to obtain vagrancy and prostitution convictions.

The detective said he had never heard of any gambling pay-offs in connection with the police department.

"To be effective all the squad would have to be in on the protection. Otherwise, the others might pull a sneak raid," he said.

Det. Fred Dougherty, president of Local 112, City Policemen's Federal Labor Union (TLC), said friction arose between him and the chief because "Mr. Mulligan was using 19th-century tactics."

"The union is democratic, like a trade union," Mr. Gould said, "and the chief is military in his police beliefs. That is the basic difference between you and the chief?"

Det. Dougherty said it was.

The Admiral's in a Flap

Even Admiral Sir Hercules Hewitt, KCB, of the Royal Navy, is unable to fend off the two flappers turned loose aboard the cruiser Falcon in "The Middle Watch," a fast-paced comedy which opens the Victoria Theatre Guild season in Langham Court Theatre at 8.15 tonight. Len Lauk is the shocked admiral who never does solve the frontal attack of flappers Margaret Dewdney, left, and Cynthia Lauk.

City Taken by Surprise

Strike Set Sunday For CPR Vessels

Tie-Up Threatens Ferries, Steamers

A strike called for midnight Sunday threatens to stop all CPR steamship and ferry service to and from Vancouver Island.

Some 450 seamen, members of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL-TLC), plan to walk off 11 passenger and freight vessels and three coastal barges after the last runs tomorrow night, to back up demands for a 12½-per-cent increase in basic wages and overtime rates.

Affected on Vancouver Island will be the Victoria-Vancouver, Victoria-Seattle, and Nanaimo-Vancouver runs of the CPR's Princess boats.

The only direct passenger link between Victoria and Vancouver will be through Trans-Canada Air Lines. But Islanders will still be able to reach the Mainland through Black Ball Lines' Nanaimo-Vancouver service and Washington State Ferries' Sidney-Anacortes service.

Norman Cunningham, port agent for the union, said in Vancouver last night that the only thing that can avert the strike Sunday is sudden acceptance of the union's demands.

But a CPR spokesman last night said no further negotiations were planned at present.

He said the strike threat "resulted from rejection by the union of a board of conciliation award. In its award the board could find no justification for an increase in basic rates of pay, but recommended an upward adjustment in overtime rates.

"The company accepted the conciliation board findings, notwithstanding that in recent years revenues of the B.C. Coast Service have failed to meet the expense by a substantial margin."

The sudden strike announcement took transportation officials by surprise yesterday.

"We will look into it immediately," said H. G. Swendson, administrative assistant of Washington State Ferries.

His company operates the Kalakala on the Victoria-Port Angeles run which is scheduled to cease operation the end of this month, and the Klickitat on the Sidney-Anacortes run, which is scheduled to stop Oct. 1.

Mr. Swendson said his company would consider keeping its services going if necessary.

He said at this time of the year the Sidney-Anacortes run could handle twice as many passengers and cars as it normally does. The Klickitat has accommodation for more than 500 passengers and 85 cars and trucks with an 11-foot clearance. It makes two round trips daily to Anacortes, which is about 70 miles from Vancouver.

George Paulin of Black Ball lines said his company would continue to operate 10 round trips daily between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Wallace Courtney, manager of TCA operations in Victoria, said the strike presents a "serious problem for the whole of the community," and added that TCA would "move in to meet the essential requirements within the limits of our capabilities."

G. F. Dunn, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said directors of the chamber will meet Monday.

CAME AS SHOCK

"The news that the SIU would precipitate a strike on such short notice came as a shock to me," he said.

"It will be a very serious matter for Victoria," said Hector Crombie, managing secretary of the chamber. "We depend on that service. If such a strike is called with disregard for the public convenience and necessity it would warrant some strong protest from civic and business leaders in the community."

TIE-UP IN 1950

The CPR's coast service was tied up in 1950 as an indirect effect of the railway strike.

Mr. Cunningham said union members voted Friday almost unanimously in favor of the strike. "We negotiated in good faith, but we couldn't get anywhere with them," he said.

More than 1,000 shipboard workers will be affected by the strike and an undetermined number of longshoremen in Vancouver, Nanaimo and Victoria will also be put out of work.

Also affected will be the steamship Queen of the North, operated jointly by the CPR and CNR on the Vancouver - Alaska run.

Present monthly wage for seamen ranges from $175 to $215 for engine room workers, and $200 to $210 for deckhands.

The dispute between the seamen and the CPR has gone on for more than a year. The conciliation hearing was held in June, 1954, and the board's ruling was handed down last November.

STRIKE SETTLED

Earlier this month, a two-month strike by 350 SIU members against Union Steamships Ltd. ended after mediation produced a $19-a-month raise.

Door Still Ajar

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada does not believe the door is yet closed on President Eisenhower's plan for mutual aerial inspection and swapping of defence blueprints with Russia.

Health Minister Paul Martin, chief of the Canadian UN delegation, said Friday night that Premier Bulganin's letter to Eisenhower dealing with the plan was not "at the moment" regarded as a rejection.

Martin, referring to a Bulganin complaint that the UN disarmament sub-committee was making little progress in its talks here, contended that "even a little progress is noteworthy, and this measure of progress has been made."

The Canadian delegate noted that the question of aerial photography outside the United States and Russia, dealt with in Bulganin's letter, had been brought up at Friday's meeting of the sub-committee.

Martin said the Canadian government would consider any requests made of it "in order to make the (Eisenhower) proposal more widespread in its application." This would apply to the aerial reconnaissance formula. It was understood that the United States would supply the Russians with blueprints of its Canadian bases on its own initiative.

No. 1 Wife Sails For U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Pakistani sources said Friday the first wife of Pakistan's ambassador to the United States, Mohammed Ali, is on her way to New York on the liner Queen Elizabeth.

She is Hamida Mohammed Ali, 40. With her two sons she boarded the transatlantic liner at Southampton Thursday and is due to arrive Sept. 27.

Mohammed Ali, 46, flew to the United States to take up his Washington post last weekend. He was accompanied by his No. 2 wife, Begum Aliya Mohammed Ali, 28, the former Alya Saddy of Wardlow, Alta.

Moslem law allows marriage to more than one wife but widespread demonstrations of protest took place in Pakistan when Mohammed Ali, then prime minister, married a second time last April 2. The protesters were mainly women.

Scores Killed

Argentina's New Rulers Mow Down All Opposition

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Scores of Peron supporters were killed or injured in Argentina Friday night in hostile demonstrations that occurred only hours after Gen. Eduardo Lonardi was sworn in as provisional president.

Argentina's new government called out armored cars and made ready air force bombers to quell spreading incidents, and machine-guns were rattling in the direction of Buenos Aires southern outskirts.

The fledgling government rushed armored units to break up riots in Rosario, Argentina's second city, by supporters of ousted dictator Juan Peron. The authorities warned the rioters bombs would be dropped on Rosario if order was not restored.

SHOOT ON SIGHT

Troops fired light field guns and machine-guns at the Peronista crowds, who invaded the centre of the city, damaging anything they could lay their hands on. Rosario, population 500,000, is about 180 miles northwest of here.

Unofficial estimates put the number of dead in Rosario at 20 and the total of wounded at 40, before order was restored.

Tear gas bombs were dropped on the area by planes, and the authorities warned Friday night that anyone seen on the streets after 8 p.m. would be shot on sight.

A Buenos Aires radio station Friday night broadcast an announcement that the military commander and provisional head of the provincial administration of Mendoza, western Argentina, has ordered all workers to report for duty immediately, or stand trial as saboteurs.

Peron was still reported to be aboard a Paraguayan gunboat outside Buenos Aires awaiting a safe conduct from Lonardi.

Reliable sources said he will not be allowed to leave until he has signed documents handing over his reputed fabulous wealth here and abroad.

Ensign Faces Theft Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Ensign David J. Page, disbursing officer of the carrier U.S.S. Wasp, was formally charged Friday with theft in connection with some $70,000 missing from the ship's funds. The officer is missing too.

The 23-year-old ensign failed to return from a week-end liberty last Monday and the navy said a check of his accounts disclosed the huge shortage.

Jury Frees Constable

TORONTO (CP)—A jury Friday freed constable Bruce Priestman of suburban East York township, whose shot at a stolen automobile was said to have led to the death of two student nurses Aug. 1 and the wounding of a car-theft suspect.

Whites Cleared Of Negro's Death

SUMNER, Miss. (AP) —Two white men accused of killing a 14-year-old Negro boy who allegedly whistled at one of their wives were acquitted of a murder charge Friday by an all-white jury which spent an hour and eight minutes deliberating their fate.

Jury foreman J. A. Shaw Jr., a young farmer, said the jury took three ballots before agreeing on the innocence of the two defendants, Roy Bryant, 24, and John W. Milan, 36.

The deciding factor, Shaw said, was what the jury considered the state's failure to prove identity of the body pulled from the Tallahatchie river. The state contended the body was that of Emmett Louis Till, a visiting Negro boy from Chicago.

"REASONABLE DOUBT"

Despite testimony by the boy's mother and uncle that it was Till's body which was taken from the river, Shaw said: "There was reasonable doubt." There was other testimony during the five-day trial that the body was floated and decomposed beyond identification when taken from the river.

Just before the case went to the jury, defence counsel John Whitten said: "There are people in the United States who want to destroy the custom and way of life of southern white people and southern colored people.

"There are people out to put us at odds who are willing to go as far as possible, to commit any crime to widen the gap between us.

"If these people had the opportunity to create a commotion, to stir up a trial such as this and focus national attention on Mississippi and focus national attention on the strained relations here, they would do it."

"CAN'T COMPLAIN"

Ending state arguments, Robert Smith III said: "I tell you, gentlemen, that Emmett Till was entitled to his constitutional rights, he was entitled to his liberty and once we go taking away his rights then we are on the defensive and we can't complain what people do to us."

District Attorney Gerald Chatham said the worst the boy deserved, if he insulted white womanhood was a "little beating" with a razor strap.

'Kiss Kiss Very Very' Note Real Surprise for Granny

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Eleven amorous Frenchmen are in for a big surprise today.

They have been looking forward to meeting beautiful "Miss" Alice Rolf, an Englishwoman whose message they had read. The message, asking "a pleasant young man", to write to her, was found in a bottle on the French coast and published in a French newspaper.

Friday the lady in question told the story. She is 54 years old, mother of seven children and has nine grandchildren.

Her son-in-law, basking on the beach of this Channel resort last month, scribbled off the message as a joke and put it in a bottle without telling her.

Mrs. Rolf shook her head sadly: "My husband is delighted but I cannot help feeling sorry for the French boys," she said. "We shall have to find some young girls to write to them.

A 20-year-old student signed off his letter: "Bye bye. Alice and kiss kiss very very."

Duke Drops Search For Armada's Gold

TOBERMORY, Scotland (Reuters)—The Duke of Argyll, who has sunk a fortune in trying to rai a 400-year-old Spanish treasure ship from its ocean bed, gave up the battle Friday.

For years, the 52-year-old duke, wealthy head of the clan Campbell, has been searching for the Duque de Florencia, the pay ship of the defeated Spanish armada. Legend says it went to the bottom of this Scottish bay 400 years ago.

Under a royal charter, signed by King Charles I, the duke has rightful claim to anything salvaged from the galleon. His ancestors before him have been after the treasure since 1683, when one hired a man to go down in a primitive diving bell to search for the wreck.

The treasure, if it is as real as old Spanish records claim, is considerable: "30 millions of cash hidden under ye sell of ye gun roome."

This summer, the duke figured he was almost certain to discover the secrets of the Duque de Florencia. Using the most modern salvage equipment and frogmen divers, he at last pin-pointed the galleon's burial ground.

As the weeks went by, divers found muddy, rusting sword scabbards and earthenware—but no gold and no glittering crown.

Last week the duke set a deadline. He gave his frogmen divers until Friday to strike gold.

They failed to reach paydirt and Friday night the men were paid off and the salvage ship was being made ready to sail away next week.

Romance with Ulterior Motive

Heir Cancels Taxes

Nation Seeks Bride for Its Prince

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UP)—His Serene Highness Prince Rainier III will fly to the United States this fall and all 21,000 of his subjects are hoping he brings back a bride.

A beautiful one, preferably. But more important, one willing to settle down and have children.

Monaco, the tiniest of Europe's tiny independent states and home of the famous Monte Carlo gambling casino, has a good reason for wanting the 32-year-old prince to get married.

As long as he stays single everyone here faces the possibility of paying income tax.

At present Monegasque citizens pay no direct taxes and live in happy independence supported by their small industries and the tourists who come to gamble and look at the Mediterranean. But if their prince should die without an heir their principality will automatically revert to France—and French tax collectors.

The need to prvent such a disaster has become more acute in recent months. The tourist trade has been falling off, and in August the country's biggest bank had to close its doors due to government's heavy losses in the failure of a commercial television venture.

Matchmaking for the prince is therefore a semi-official pastime in Monaco, and the latest rumor is that Prince Rainier has more than a movie fan's interest in American actress Grace Kelly. He met her last year when she was on the Riviera filming "To Catch a Thief."

Miss Kelly has never let it be known what she thinks of Prince Rainier or the possibility of moving into his 200-room yellow stone palace.

The last person to be linked romantically with the prince was Gisele Pascal, a French film actress. Their romance wavered for years, but Gisele finally went back to Paris and Rainier went back to his yacht and sports cars.

Last winter an American co-ed, Jo Ann Stork, came all the way from Alton, Ill., to see the prince after she read in a magazine that he was interested in American girls. The prince took her for a ride in his red Jaguar and poured champagne for her in his private bar, but nothing came of it.

Officially, the prince's trip to America Nov. 19 is for a medical check-up at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. If the gossip columnists are right, he probably will call up Grace Kelly, too.

The last time Prince Rainier went on a trip his homecoming was a disappointment to his subjects. All he brought home was 32 chimpanzees, baboons, marmosets and other animals and birds for a new national zoo.

OAK BAY people leave out three times as much garbage as Esquimalt people do, according to statistics.

Why? Oak Bay houses are larger than average, but Oak Bay stomachs are standard size. Are there more people in the houses? With the butler, the footman, the cook and the gardener all throwing their trash in the same basket, you might get a bigger haul.

But butlers and footmen are growing scarce and the gardener probably has a house of his own in the Uplands.

* * *

Oak Bay people may be more wasteful. Just what kind of stuff are the garbage men carrying off, anyway? Probably pheasant skeletons, old caviar tins, slightly soiled mink coats, the corpses of bill collectors and sirloin steaks that were thrown away because they had too much pepper on them.

* * *

"Whatever happened to that old picture, Hermione? The one that used to hang in the north hall."

"The one by—what was the man's name, Rembrandt? Oh, it was getting grubby. Besides, old Goatgirdle sneezed on it the other day, and he chews tobacco."

"Disgusting habit, chewing tobacco. So what did you do with the picture?"

"I had the houseboy throw it in the garbage."

"Good. I was afraid you were going to say you'd moved it in the attic. Too much stuff cluttering the attic already. When are you going to get rid of that Louis IX desk with the cigar burn on it, and that old diamond tiara?"

"I had the houseboy throw those out too."

"Fine. Now we'll have more space to store food for the canaries."

Langford Man Denies Shots At Neighbor

A Langford man denied to an assize court jury yesterday that he fired a shot at his neighbor, whom he has not spoken to since the spring of 1953.

William Patterson also denied ever threatening Wallace Michael Heal, 959 Island Highway, or spying on him with field glasses.

Patterson is accused of discharging a firearm with intent to endanger the life of Heal on July 25.

Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker will charge the jury this morning, the first time in at least seven years assize court sat on Saturday in Victoria.

Patterson testified yesterday he fired one shot and missed a raccoon behind his house. He fired his .22 calibre rifle toward a chicken coop, away from the road near where Heal was standing.

He returned the gun to his home, about 50 feet away.

HEARD SHOT

Const. Robert Ross, who parked at Heal's property on routine business seconds before the alleged incident, said he heard a shot from the Patterson property.

With Sgt. John O. Hall he went to Heal's property and found the complainant "quite hysterical."

"He was quite spitting the words out," the officer said.

Heal testified earlier he had seen Patterson pointing a rifle directly at him and seconds later a shot went off as he walked away.

Patterson said he told police that he had fired a shot, but was "difficult with them."

When they left with his rifle, he remained at home a few minutes and then went to the Colwood police station to find "what it was all about" He was arrested there and charged.

Questioned by Crown counsel Lloyd McKenzie, Patterson said he had "no purpose in misleading" police by producing an unfired rifle and airgun before surrendering the one he had fired.

Patterson denied Heal's testimony that posts were placed to obstruct Heal's truck.

He denied Mrs. Heal's testimony that he told her, "You'll visit your husband in hospital."

He also denied Crown testimony that he had spied on Heal with field glasses.

Patterson described his neighbor as a person "making a nuisance of himself to my father and others." He admitted a 1953 [illegible] gun in [illegible] Heal."

This event was described by Crown witnesses Joanne Taylor, 960 Island Highway, and Marlene Finlay.

The 10-year-old girls said they were picking flowers in "Mike's yard" and were asked by Patterson to move away.

"I heard Patterson say, 'Move out of the way, Joanne. I'd like to shoot Mike.' So I moved out of the way," the child said.

Both girls said they could not remember what else if anything happened.

Defence witness William Eveleigh, 947 Island Highway, said he had never heard threats against Heal by Patterson.

Asked how he got along with Heal, the witness replied.

"As long as I stay away from him I get along fine."

Defence counsel James Proudfoot described Heal as "apparently a victim of poor neighbors" in recalling four accounts of his troubles.

Daylily Cult Spreading Fast

By M.V. CHESNUT, FRHS

It has always been a bit of a puzzle to me why the Daylily or Hemerocallis isn't grown more extensively here, because for my money, it is just about the most satisfying and trouble-free perennial flower of the lot.

Just think—they are perfectly hardy, easy to plant, easy to grow, thriving in almost any part of the garden, and at home in either full sun or partial shade. They are not the least bit fussy about their soil, and they have hardly any serious insect pests or diseases.

The Daylily is obviously made to order for the lazy gardener, too, for they require absolutely no attention except for lifting and dividing every third or fourth year.

GRACEFUL FLOWER

My only fear is that some day we will become snobbish about them, and look down our noses at such an easy and "common" flower, in spite of its grace and loveliness. That day is a long time off, however, for the cult of the Daylily is spreading like wildfire in the U.S.A., and every year brings new and lovelier varieties from the hands of the plant breeders. If these plants have any fault at all, it is the fact that they are useless as a cut flower, each individual blossom lasting only a single day.

With reasonable care, the daylily can be planted or transplanted any time through the gardening season, but the best times are in early spring, when growth is just commencing, and in the fall, after flowering is finished, but while there is still lots of warmth in the soil.

In most gardens, the plants may be left undisturbed for three or four years. When the branches in the crown become really crowded, and the centre portion of the clump is sticking up above the level of the rest, it is time to lift and break up the clump, cutting off the accumulation of dead roots, and replanting.

While they don't insist upon any particular kind of soil, they DO like plenty of moisture and nourishment, especially during the blooming period. A bit of peat moss or leaf mould mixed into the planting site will help maintain the continuity of moisture they like so well.

HUNDREDS OF COLORS

There are literally hundreds of colors and varieties to choose from—one specialist grower in Texas, the Russell Daylily Farm, lists 213 different kinds, including spring-blooming, summer-blooming, and fall-blooming varieties.

A few of my favorites are Gold Dust, with very large flowers and a pleasing fragrance; Coralline, a light coral pink; Kathleen Hardy Smith, with bronze-colored flowers; Black Prince, a velvety mahogany shade; Mikado, golden yellow marked with brown, and Talisman, a lovely salmon pink with a green throat.

Where you have a difficult spot in the garden to fill, such as a strip between the house foundation and a cement walk, try Margaret Perry, one of the older varieties, and so vigorous I believe she would grow on a tin roof. The lady is a bold hussy, though, and if bedded down with other plants in good soil, she will shoulder the others out, and take over the whole bed to herself.

Molotov Demands Arms, Atom Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP—Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov called Friday for an end to the world armaments race. He also demanded a ban on nuclear weapons and asked the west to dismantle its foreign military bases.

"The armaments race has assumed unprecedented proportions," Molotov said in a 1½ - hour address to the UN General Assembly. "Enormous material and human resources are being diverted for war preparations instead of being used for constructive purposes.

"This state of affairs must not be allowed to continue. The United Nations must speak up emphatically against the arms race and in favor of reducing armaments, outlawing atomic and hydrogen weapons and removing the danger of another war."

Canadas' reaction to Molotovs' address was one of disappointment that it apparently contained no definitive statement on the question of arms control.

NO NEW GROUND

"No new ground was broken, commented Health Minister Paul Martin, Canada's chief UN delegate. "We were given assurance by Molotov about the Russians agreement to provide effective controls but no idea of the details of those controls. This is essential if there is to be disarmament."

Molotov said the Soviet Union "attaches considerable importance to the setting up of controls over disarmament measures and its proposals provide for the granting of wide rights and powers to the control bodies. He referred to Russian plans for establishing control posts at railway and highway junctions, airports and seaports.

But Martin felt Molotov should have been more specific on just how much latitude these inspection bodies would be given. He referred to questions about this matter which he has put to Russia's Arkady Sobolev at meetings of the UN disarmament sub-committee—questions he says have not been answered satisfactorily.

In concluding, Molotov introduced for the assembly's consideration a mild resolution proposing that the UN consider all plans for disarmament and all other proposals intended to relax tension and prevent a third world war.

Sal and Sam At the Races

Racing comes back to Vancouver Island after an absence of seven years with an eight-race card at Sandown park, Sidney. Sal and Sam, confirmed enthusiasts of the Sport of Kings, are going to have a flutter a day for the two-week meet and are starting with a roll of $20 each.

Sam's the darning type, a natural born handicapper, and although he hasn't been picking them for seven years, knows he's just good enough to bet them on the nose and increase the family fortunes. Sal's the cautious type who picks them by color, cute names, the flash of the jockey's silks and intuition. She'll make one place-bet each day.

For opening day, Sam's convinced that MARSHALL F, running in the third race at a mile and 70 yards, has the early speed to lead the pack and the stamina to stay there to the wire. Ridden by Jockey Suarez and posted at 116 pounds, Marshall F will carry Sam's first $2. A win here should return a good figure as Marshall F is highly unlikely to go to the post a favorite.

With the weather man predicting a perfect day, clear weather and a fast track, Sal's going for a well-rated sprinter in the second race of six furlongs. She'll place her $2 on Western Man with Jockey Jim Lynn up. This is the race with the Quinella pool but Sal will stay with the place-bet only.

Whooping Cranes Given Reprieve by Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force emphasized Friday it isn't going to take any action immediately, at least, that will disturb the almost extinct whooping cranes on their Texas wintering grounds.

A request by the air force for additional ground around the Motagordo island gunnery range touched off a controversy earlier this year.

This would extend the range to areas where the big birds spend the coldest months, wildlife experts said. They added that this would seriously disturb these rare birds whose numbers they are trying to increase.

An announcement Friday said a careful study of the record of a public hearing held last month at Port Lavaca, Tex., is being made. Later the final decision on the extension of the range will be disclosed.

One protest came from Canada, where the cranes spend their summers. The United States fish and wildlife service joined in.

Girl Outsmarts Drug-Crazed Pistol Killer

DENVER (UP) — A diabolical killer, his courage bolstered by narcotics and a nickel-plated pistol, was still at large last night after he murdered a talented young Kansas City musician and missed slaying a 23-year-old girl only because she outsmarted him.

"He was an evil man, a wicked, ugly man . . . a sex maniac," his intended victim, Joyce Danielson, a hospital technician, murmured from a hospital bed where she lay with a bullet wound in her shoulder, head lacerations from a beating and tire marks on her face.

The musician, 26-year-old Hubert Hahn, a trombonist with the Denver Symphony Orchestra, had no chance early yesterday when the slightly-built, curly-haired gunman abducted the young couple. Hahn, whose parents live in Kansas City, was found dead on a country road in Adams county, just outside Denver. He had been shot twice in the head and several times about the body.

Miss Danielson said she and Hahn were kidnapped late Thursday night as they sat in Hahn's car in front of a Denver apartment house.

The "filthy-talking" young killer, who later tried unsuccessfully to rape Miss Danielson, forced Hahn to drive for four hours before ordering them out of the car on a lonely road. He teased them by offering their freedom, but Miss Danielson said the two turned and ran.

"What's your hurry?" the cocky killer yelled. He then shot Hahn and made Miss Danielson help him drag the body to a weed patch.

The killer forced his intended second victim back into the car and drove on, taunting her with death from his nickel-plated .22-calibre automatic. She then made the decision which caught him by surprise and ultimately saved her own life.

When the man began talking about using narcotics and attempted to rape her, Miss Danielson said she lunged for the gun. She was shot in the shoulder, but managed to open the door and fall onto the road.

She played dead and the killer drove the car away after first backing up over her head to make sure of his victim. Soft earth apparently saved her life.

Miss Danielson struggled to a switch-engine crew in northeast Denver and was taken to hospital. Her ordeal lasted about nine hours from the time of the abduction.

Miss Danielson said she had worked late at St. Lukes hospital last night and met Hahn, who was returning from a concert at the festival of Italy fashion show. They live at the same address.

Hahn's roommate, Alson Davis, 32, a symphony trumpeter, had joined them in front of the apartment house, but left for his room.

Mrs. Casey Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Irene Casey, wife of Reeve Joseph W. Casey of Saanich, died at 6.30 p.m. yesterday in Royal Jubilee hospital after a long illness.

Born in Victoria, Mrs. Casey lived for many years in Saanichton. She was married in Centennia United church, Gorge road, in 1917.

Surviving besides her husband are a sister, Mrs. Cora Guy; two sons, Raymond and Elwood; one daughter, Mrs. Viola Barnswell, and five grandchildren, all of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

United Charities

IF an united charities' appeal comes into effect in Greater Victoria through the support of the chamber of commerce and other bodies who may feel that the time for such a move is due, consideration should be given to the nature of the organization that would then come into being. For a long time the public has been ready for a radical change in the present methods of collecting, to put an end to never-ceasing solicitation and to secure more effective results for the several charities benefiting. There is no reason why other supporting mediums should not be explored too, and one of the most stable of these is the foundation or trust. The long-established Vancouver foundation is an example.

Most if not all of the established charitable organizations operating in Victoria are incorporated under the Societies Act or a federal equivalent. They have the power to receive bequests, establish trusts and to disburse the income from capital sums in aid of their own causes. If city charities can get together with regard to a once-a-year collection by public subscription some form of central body will be needed in any event, whether this is called the Community Chest, the United Charities Fund or by any other name. The same organization could be established as a trust-receiving body, with all of the opportunities that are inherent in such a status. This would open the door to a form of subscription now seldom tapped.

Handsome donations to individual causes were announced recently in Vancouver. The MacMillan and the Koerner gifts both will operate through trust organizations on behalf of their special purposes. They and many other gifts or bequests set aside in the same kindly vein are of valuable assistance to the special causes they will benefit. There is some reason to believe, however, that many individuals would also be ready to support a charitable foundation with the object of assisting all charities. If a unified Victoria body is brought into play, it should be given this additional means of attracting not only annual but also permanent donations from those who are well disposed.

Trust officers in touch with the situation in Victoria know that there is a considerable amount of interest in this field. Time after time they are asked by testators and others to suggest charitable causes worthy of attention. Sometimes individuals prefer to name one express cause that they wish to further. More often than not, however, the charitable impulse is more general and several such causes are named in the deed of gift. There is no reason why a consolidated charities group should not avail itself of this opportunity. The means to it is simple, and under existing provincial enactment.

B.C. Needs Saltwater Parks

RECENTLY The Sidney and Gulf Islands Review printed some illuminating facts about the increasing extent to which Sidney is being used as a customs and immigration clearance point by visitors from the United States. Among other statistics the Review noted that this summer no fewer than 1,085 private pleasure boats made official entry at Sidney up to the end of August. The cruising season was by no means ended then, for September is a popular month with older owners of pleasure craft who are not concerned about the beginning of school.

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has announced its intention to press for better facilities generally for pleasure boats visiting the Island's numerous attractive anchorages, and these figures are timely in that connection. Sidney, while much favored by U.S. yachtsmen because of its convenient location, is only one of several customs entry points. Hundreds more clear each summer at Victoria, Cadboro Bay and points farther north where customs service is available. All summer long the waters adjacent to the eastern side of the Island teem with American boats of all types and sizes, all of them representing important business to the community.

Aside from marinas and floats commercially operated, the Island has very little to offer this section of the American or Canadian touring public in the way of accommodation and facilities. The provincial parks service has done magnificent things in its parks, beaches and camp sites for those who travel by road, but nothing at all for those who come here in their own or chartered boats. By contrast the Washington State parks authority at comparatively small cost has made many popular anchorages among the San Jan Islands safer and more convenient for the boating fraternity. At places like Stuart and Sucia Islands (much visited by Canadian yachtsmen as well) permanent moorings have been laid down, wharves and floats built, and simple but much appreciated facilities provided ashore.

For its own people as well as for tourists, British Columbia could do with some saltwater park sites. If the chamber of commerce can persuade the authorities to start a program similar to that across the line it will have made a valuable contribution to the amenities of the province, stimulating travel and trade at the same time.

Losing Good Men

HIS term as naval chief of staff nearly over, Vice-Admiral Mainguy is scheduled to step down for a successor. Since there is no place in the service for an ex-chief of staff that means he returns to civilian life at the early age of 54 years. These so-called terms of office for service chiefs have no mandatory time limit but changes are excused about every four years on the ground they make way for younger officers. This idea may have something to commend it although it was denied recently when Lieut.-General Simonds was succeeded as army chief by a man four years his elder.

It is worth noting that this policy deprives the country of top-ranking military men while they are at the peak of their services. It is doubtful that Canada can afford to lose men of this stamp, and reports that NATO may welcome eagerly the services of General Simonds emphasize this point. In the case of Admiral Mainguy it will be a pity if his abilities are now to be lost to the nation. He would make an excellent ambassador, for example, being a man of diplomatic ease and tact as well as a naval officer of administrative and operational distinction. Certainly his value should not be lost when it might well be harnessed to some public post of importance.

Admiral Mainguy's successor, Rear-Admiral DeWolf, is an officer whose career has earmarked him for the highest naval office. Every since his dynamic wartime command of the destroyer Haida, which swept the English Channel like a magnet that drew enemy ships into action, his progress has been efficient and always upward. He is known here as a first-rate former flag officer of Pacific Command. The navy will be in safe hands when he takes over the helm from Admiral Mainguy. Yet presumably at the end of another four years he too will have to bow out while still a comparatively young man at the height of his powers. A promotion at the top means a promotion all down the line and in general this may seem a good thing, but a studied policy of shunting capable men early to the sidelines does not altogether make sense.

Interpreting the News

Time and Tide

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

SOME people are in the habit of setting their watches ahead, hoping thereby to kid themselves into being on time.

The practice has two faults, and any engineer would tell one it is a queer way to run a railroad.

* * *

Most of the time the mind will discount the watch face because it knows what has happened; and the last-minute rush is the same. But sometimes the mind will be fooled by preoccupation and decide there is no use trying to catch the boat because it's already gone.

Either result is possible from the now—optimistic now—cautious evaluations we are getting these days about the Russian situation. One never hear I of setting a watch slow, but all this hopping around is becoming enervating.

* * *

Pre-publication reports on the contents of Premier Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower indicated that while it represents a continuation of top-level negotiations, and therefore may be considered encouraging, it by no means represents any great closing of the policy gap on disarmament.

If Bulganin and Molotov want to trade on the question of foreign bases by eliminating all of Russia's while the United States eliminates all of hers, they'd have to throw in Red China, North Korea, North Viet Nam and the European satellites to make it even.

* * *

If Bulganin merely intends to include foreign bases in the Eisenhower-proposed inspection program, he might get somewhere, although the United States could logically demand similar rights at least in Eastern Europe, where the armies are under far more specific Russian command than the NATO armies are under American command.

In NATO, an American general is merely at the top of an amalgamated command, and he has no political authority. In Eastern Europe, Russia has both political and military command.

"Do we have to get there by election time?"

Island Jaunt

By FRANK KELLEY

A BIT sceptical concerning the claim that a ferry vessel, even under ideal conditions, could dock and get away again on its return trip in 10 minutes, one could hardly credit such smartness at the turn-around point of the Black Ball Line boat at Departure Bay until Eric Marshall, of Paulin Travel Bureau, took me for a ride on a recent Sunday.

It was somewhat amazing to see, with watch in hand, the operation of discharging some 48 motor cars and embarking 52 vehicles of the same general pattern in just nine minutes, the actual time the boat was tied up, a total of 100 autos of varied types.

* * *

Astonishing as the sight was, it was just an incident in a day of many interesting moments enjoying what has already been accomplished on the Vancouver Island section of the Trans-Canada Highway as we moved with, or opposite to other motorists and tried to picture what that splendid road will look like when all finished and time given a chance to add its magic fancies in highway embellishments.

One could not help recalling during that drive that old-time settlers in certain areas beyond the reach of roads on this lovely Island did not hesitate to state emphatically it was altogether too bad the legislators of the time did not give all of Vancouver Island to Robert Dunsmuir. It stands to reason he and his successors, Canadian Pacific, would have developed it from one end to the other, opening it with highways, the arteries of habitations and industries, without which there can be no overall progress.

* * *

So far so good. Everything considered, we should be truly thankful, I suppose, for what is being done by our short-visioned kind; but it does not do any harm to dream about the day when thoroughfares may be opening up and developing new areas of scenic delight, equal to if not more appealing than the best we have at present in our immediate environments.

Not as appealing to the senses at the moment as the old Island Highway was at one time—and what is left of it still is—the new road in time will possess all its attractions.

So my host for the day evidently thought; for on the return drive to Victoria he followed the old road through the unspoiled pastoral approach to Duncan, passed through that dainty community, looking as neat and sweet as always remembered, followed the shoreline of Cowichan Bay and on to Mill Bay, where the ferry for Brentwood was boarded, from where we finished a glorious day's outing through the pleasing Saanich Peninsula.

* * *

A bit remarkable, too, were the many homesites and premises devoted to tourists observed during the outing, particularly between Cowichan, Chemainus and Nanaimo. Ladysmith had come a long way since James Dunsmuir named the coal shipping port he was developing as Victorians celebrated the relief of that South African borough in Boer War days.

Not having seen Nanaimo for some time, it was quite a breath-catching experience to observe the evidences of a new era everywhere visible as we passed along its streets. But while seemingly bursting at the seams with progress, the Up-Island hub still features, maybe as a visitor attraction, the not-too-straight streets which the horse-and-buggy pilots were wont to squawk about. That will be Nanaimo's business.

AFTER sweeping through factory after factory in the United States, the "Second Industrial Revolution" has now established a substantial bridgehead in Canada. In fact, there's a fair chance that as a result of this invasion a "thinking" machine will be doing your job within a decade.

* * *

Automation, as the revolution is called, is as important to industry—and society—as the introduction of mass production in the early 1900s. Where earlier machines vastly extended the output of human muscles, the automatic, electronic marvels stemming from the new science of cybernetics can replace the human brain in almost any routine repetitive operation, and eliminate the human machine operator entirely.

These words "routine" and "repetitive" don't mean the machines are limited to simple jobs. The most complex processes can be broken down into small, routine steps. Automation can be as simple as the electric eye that opens your garage door, or as complicated as a whole assembly line that literally runs itself.

* * *

Main pioneer of automation in Canada is McKinnon Industries Ltd., of St. Catharines, Ont. Its massive and complicated production line, 1,020 feet long, transforms rough-cast engine blocks into fully machined ones. The machines broach, grind, bore, hone, turn the blocks in any desired direction (including upside down), convey them automatically from one step to the next—and do it all by themselves. Even inspection is largely electronic, with any defective block automatically rejected.

Spread out along this 1,000-foot wonder are fewer than 25 human beings. Most of their work consists of watching flashing lights and meters. Occasionally they replace a drill bit when the machine signals that the one in use is wearing out. Formerly, it took about 120 men to accomplish the same set of operations. Now, with over 800 separate steps to be performed on the blocks, the machines turn them out with an expenditure of less than a third of a man-hour of human labor per block.

At the Holmes Foundry in Sarnia, where engine blocks are manufactured for Ford of Canada, automation stepped up output from 600 to nearly 1,000 blocks per day. Simultaneously, the work force was cut from 467 to 280 men.

* * *

But automation isn't only for the factory. The new business machines equipped with "electronic brains" are taking over thousands of jobs formerly held by people.

Univac, the giant "brain" developed by Remington-Rand, is used among other things to make up the weekly payroll for 12,000 employees at a Louisville, Kentucky, plant. It does the whole job—deductions, bonuses, subtotals—writes out a cheque for everyone, and takes off a payroll report in less than six hours.

The U.S. Navy uses an IBM "701" to order and route 200,000 different aircraft parts to stations all over the world, replacing scores of sailor-clerks. Family allowance cheques are written and mailed by automatic machinery.

* * *

Obviously the new machines represent a clear, direct threat to thousands of individual workers. Some of those displaced will be re-absorbed in new jobs created by automation. For the rest, the future may be dark unless labor, management and government combine their resources to minimize the dislocations of this inevitable technological progress.

The Packsack

Hollywood's Influence

By GREGORY CLARK

NOT being a movie goer, I am wondering what new movie star has the pretty little trick of wrinkling up her nose. For I have lately noticed among the younger members of the fair sex a general habit of twisting and wrinkling up their noses in what must be a fashion set by some star. Years ago, when Katharine Hepburn showed the world what a gaunt, gawky, slab-sided girl could do, especially with a slow, insolent, drawly voice, we had a dreadful outbreak of gauntness, slab-sidedness and hoarse, insolent voices amongst the young females.

* * *

Indeed, there was such an outbreak of reducing, so as to get down to the Hepburn flatness, that I wouldn't be surprised if many a woman of 40 now owes her gall bladder trouble, her sleeping pills and her arthritis to the passionate effort she indulged in, when 20, to pare herself down to the Hepburn or barn door style.

Then what new star is now a nose-wrinkler? What new fashion-setter is knocking people out into the aisles by wrinkling up her nose as if it were a prehensile organ? Within the past summer, on buses, street cars, in restaurants and on the streets, I have observed all manner of girls, with all manner of noses, trying to employ their noses for purposes of gesturing. Formerly, they used their eyes, mouths and hands for emphasis. Now they have lately developed the trick of twisting the upper lip so that the nose is wrinkled, wiggled and waggled about to express surprise, dismay, incredulity and just plain interest. When you said to a girl: "I hear Joey is coming back home," a girl would raise her eyebrows, open her eyes wide, make a round O out of her mouth and maybe put her hands up to her cheeks or wave them about a little.

Now all she does is wrinkle her nose at you.

Wrinkling the nose, from time immemorial, has been largely reserved for the expression of contempt or derision. But when you tell a girl Joey is coming home, maybe it is the best news she has heard since she passed her entrance. But what does she do? She wrinkles her nose.

* * *

I must get over my lazy habits and make the rounds of the movie houses again, and see which of the current stars is setting this fashion. It may be all right for some noses. But many of the girls have noses that don't wrinkle so well.

Under the Dome

Redress of Hardship

By RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

GOVERNMENTS look after the affairs of masses of people but they also administer for individuals. Most of their legislation is collective in its effect. Sometimes one man or woman must be taken care of, either helped or penalized as the case may be.

This week saw the conclusion of a case which had human appeal. It was considered a moral injustice and the giant wheels of B.C. provincial government ground slowly to produce a solution.

* * *

Earlier this year during the session of the Legislature, Anthony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) rose in the house and told a story. A woman in Westview, a small village in his riding, had just lost a $3,000 home because she owed $16 in school taxes. The house was put up for tax sale and went for $30. Somebody made a killing at her expense.

And Mr. Gargrave admitted there had been nothing illegal about the whole affair. Mrs. Mary Booth had moved to Vancouver and rented the house in Westview. Because it was in a village where the local commission collects taxes for local services and the provincial government collects them for school purposes, there were two tax bills. Mrs. Booth received the local tax bill and paid it. But the provincial tax bill did not catch up with her for three years. The house was put up for sale, sold; the one year of grace elapsed, and it went to the new owners.

Then, and only then, did Mrs. Booth discover the house was no longer hers. She appealed what seemed an injustice and things started to roll.

* * *

Technically the government and its tax collection department were in the clear. They had followed the letter of the law in every detail. There had been no negligence on the part of any official of the department. But there was an obvious moral injustice.

When it was drawn to the attention of the government in the Legislature, Attorney-General Bonner defended the department and explained that no legal wrong had been done. But he promised to look into it.

The first thing the government then did was to amend the law so it couldn't happen again. The law now requires that if no response is made by a taxpayer to the tax notice after a certain period has elapsed, the tax officials must find the person and serve the notice personally. This will prevent a recurrence of the Booth case.

But because her home had been sold before the act was amended, it didn't help Mrs. Booth. Her home was in the hands of two other people who had picked it up for $30.

* * *

The next move was for the governments to put up some cash to help out Mrs. Booth. They didn't have to, but recognized her plight. The cabinet appropriated $1,000 for the purpose, either as compensation for Mrs. Booth, or payment to the new owners to buy back the house.

The new owners wouldn't accept. They could have made more than 3,000 per cent profit on the deal if they accepted the $1,000. But the house was worth more than that, they had purchased it in a legal way and they sat tight.

Mrs. Booth, on the other hand, didn't want to accept the $1,000 as compensation. She felt she would be taking a $2,000 loss on the deal even though it could be argued $1,000 was better than nothing.

Frustrated officials of the finance department spent months trying to work out a solution, bring the two together. Both had hired lawyers by this time and were acting on their advice.

Eventually the government suggested that an arbitrator be appointed. First, neither of the two parties would accept that, but finally agreed to abide by the findings of an impartial referee.

* * *

This week there was a settlement. The compensation to Mrs. Booth was increased to $3,500 and she accepted it.

Hundreds of man hours were used over the case. Pages of letters and documents. Several hours of discussion in the Legislature. Many, many newspaper stories as the case progressed.

In effect, it cost the government several thousand dollars to collect the $30 they received in the tax sale.

But this also is how democracy works. The lady had a good case though she had no legal grounds whatever. In a court, nothing could have been done for her because there was no legal loophole. But in parliamentary government, her voice was heard through the man her fellow constituents elected. It was brought to the attention of the people who make he laws, so they changed the law. It cost a lot of money and time, but here government was working for one individual because she had a good case.

Letters to the Editor

Crushing Blow

On Friday, Sept. 16, I lost my purse in down-town Victoria and I promptly notified all the stores in which I had shopped and placed an advertisement in the newspaper and over the local radio station, but to no avail. Apparently whoever found it thinks he or she needs it far worse than I do.

I am the sole support of three young children and the loss of two weeks salary is truly a crushing blow. I wonder if the person who found my purse and kept it has lost as much sleep over his conscience as I have over the anxiety this loss has caused me.

The old saying "Honesty is the best policy" is not believed by everyone, so it would seem.

Poor Horses

Three cheers for Ernest Mueller of Seattle, whose letter appeared in the Sept. 20 Colonist. It's only a pity that it was someone outside of the city who raised a voice against the tally-hos.

Year after year these disgusting things are seen touring the city. Anyone who has ever passed along the Causeway where these things are stationed, if they have any humane feelings, would find them disgusting, too.

The poor horses, in heavy harness, forced to stand under the boiling sun on hot pavement, with no shelter, slobbering and frothing at the mouth, are a pitiful sight indeed; and then after perishing in the heat and harness, made to pull a heavy load of silly people through busy streets and heavy traffic. Many times I have seen a horse lose his footing on the pavement and almost fall.

This year I noticed the pavement at the Causeway appeared to have been hosed down. I suppose this was because the stench and great pools of saliva at the horses feet was too much for passers-by to bear. This hosing down was no doubt for the comfort of the tourists and passers-by. What of the comfort of the horses?

Every year when the circus comes to town a lot of self-righteous people get up on their soap-boxes and shout about the poor wild animals being so cruelly treated. Why don't they shout about something that goes on right under their noses every day each summer, year after year? Is the almighty tourist dollar so important that the suffering of those poor horses doesn't matter? I think the tally-hos are a blotch on a city which has a reputation of being beautiful.

(Mrs.) H. MAYER.

Fly-Blown

In the Sept. 21 Colonist Dr. Fairey, MP, is reported as saying: "No treaty or international agreement could prevent the use of the H-bomb, if war came." And so, annihilation.

What poppycock.

There are only two countries in the world which have the H-bomb in production or which have ever threatened to use it—and each has wide spaces between walls. The time factor and cost debar other countries from making stock piles.

The H-bomb is an offensive, not a defensive weapon — not even a deterrent. The "Big Two" have bragged and threatened until they have made each other's flesh creep and now show signs of being willing to ring down the curtain on a vile but silly farce. How can the bomb be "controlled or abolished" except under an international agreement between the "Big Two?" The terms are another matter.

By threatening to use the bomb, the U.S. lost the moral leadership of the world which seemed within its grasp. It was an adoption of German "frightfulness." By its subservience to American foreign policy our government has not only approved, implicitly, this reversion to barbarism, but has made a major contribution to the disintegration of the British Commonwealth, which might otherwise have become an effective mediator. For this helpless and hopeless government, Dr. Fairey speaks. It trusts to luck.

It is time that the people of Canada cast away—to borrow from Lord Roseberry—"the fly-blown phylacteries of the Liberal Party."

School By-Law

In the Colonist of Sept. 22 the following statement appeared:

"Increase in actual tax money will be from one to two mills, explained Mr. Chatterton. On a property assessed at $10,000, the increase in taxes would be approximately $3.50 a year, he said."

If Mr. Chatterton is correctly quoted I for one need a lot more information. One mill on $10,000 is $10. How is the figure of $3.50 arrived at? $3.50 is the return from a 3½-mill levy on $1,000.

Explanations and further information would seem to be in order.

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters) — Eight persons were killed when the boiler of a small ferry steamer exploded in the Bassein river 80 miles west of Rangoon, reports reaching here Friday said. Thirty survivors, some seriously injured, were rescued.

Bulganin Calls For Arms Deal

DENVER (AP—Soviet Premier Bulganin, in a message to President Eisenhower made public Friday, says the president's plan for swapping military blueprints "would become significant only if agreement is achieved on reduction of armaments and on taking measures for prohibition of atomic weapons.

Bulganin also wrote that Eisenhower's plan for mutual aerial inspections is a matter which would not "lead to effective progress towards ensuring security of states and successful accomplishment of disarmament.

"My remarks do not at all mean that we cannot achieve an agreement on important aspects of the disarmament problem. I would like to call your attention to the fact that on very substantial aspects of this problem our position has become so close to each others that we would be able to reach a definite agreement.

The administrations official position will be set forth, possibly early next week, when Eisenhower replies to Bulganin.

West Germany Approves Pact

BONN (AP — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Friday won unanimous parliamentary approval of his agreement to establish diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

This cleared the way for Bonn and Moscow to exchange ambassadors before the conference of the Big Four foreign ministers starts in Geneva next month.

Both governments are anxious to set up the new embassies before this crucial meeting that could decide the fate of Germany for years to come.

The foreign office said discussions between the West German and Soviet embassies in Paris will start within 48 hours.

Pleased at the Bundestags solid vote of confidence, Adenauer smilingly commented:

"This was a good conclusion to my negotiations in Moscow. It remains to be seen whether it is a good beginning.

Tracy's Formula—Be Natural

BY HAROLD HEFFERNAN

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Who is the leading actor in Hollywood today?

Meaning, of course, what single movie performer's work on the screen is most admired by his colleagues in the profession.

Take a poll among all of them — men and women, those starred and featured, bit players and extras—and chances are 10 to one you'll come up with a solid majority for a fellow who has been around a long, long time. Chap by name of Spencer Tracy.

Newcomer and old-timer alike seem to ape Tracy, his easy, nonchalant mannerisms, his low voice, his droopy-head postures and, above all, his so-called "delayed action" type of dialogue delivery. Drama tutors all over town instruct their pupils to "go see Spencer Tracy pictures."

What then is the secret satisfying weapon of this man who has carried off two academy Oscars, who recently won the Cannes film festival's "actor of the year" trophy and who repeatedly tops most of the newspaper and magazine polls for "best actor"?

We decided to go straight to headquarters for the answer — to Tracy himself.

"You know, I've been asked that one, in one form or another, countless times in the past 20 years," Tracy said, "and I've always given the same honest answer.

"I don't know. I'm just trying to be natural, that's all."

SPENCER TRACY

Reporter Cleared On Contempt Count

VANCOUVER (CP) — Veteran crime reporter Ray Munro left the royal commission police inquiry Friday, freed of contempt proceedings which had been held in abeyance for more than a month by commissioner Reginald H. Tupper.

Mr. Munro had been cited for contempt of the commission Aug. 8 for articles in the Toronto tabloid Flash, said to have been written by the reporter and referring to witnesses and police chief Walter Mulligan.

Friday, after an hour-long legal battle about jurisdiction, commissioner Tupper and his counsel, J. G. A. Hutcheson, decided there was "not sufficient proof" that Mr. Munro had written the articles in question.

"Some of us," said commissioner Tupper, "may feel it is a matter of common sense that if an article appears without protest, which indicates it was made by an individual, that it was made by that individual.

"But that has no validity in law," said the commissioner.

The hearing was adjourned until Oct. 4.

Before the 27th sitting of the oft-adjourned inquiry into police affairs resumed Friday, Mr. Munro told reporters he had resigned from Flash—"this time for good."

He said he had taken over as editor of a new publication—Tabloid—which will be issued in Vancouver with the first issue appearing Oct. 6.

He said he was also managing director of Imperial Publications, publishers of Tabloid.

British Diplomats Long Known Reds

LONDON (Reuters—Two British diplomats who fled behind the Iron Curtain in 1951 as suspected Russian spies were known to have professed Communist sympathies in their university days—long before becoming trusted foreign office employees—a government report disclosed Friday night.

But, the report added, Donald Maclean and Guy Burgess both outwardly renounced their Communist views after leaving Cambridge University. When they were given their diplomatic posts, "nothing was on record about either to show that he was unsuitable for the public service, it said.

The report, an official white paper, was published by the government in the midst of a storm of press criticism over the way the foreign office hushed up facts about the disappearance of Maclean and Burgess. The two vanished while they were ostensibly on holiday in France four years ago.

The government was prompted to issue the report because of exposures about the case made last weekend in a London Sunday newspaper by Vladimir Petrov, former Soviet secret police official who has sought asylum in Australia.

Father Faces Charge

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Jaspair, a 35-year-old Regina deaf mute, was charged Friday with kidnapping his eight-year-old daughter from his estranged wife.

Judge Gerald Almond postponed the hearing until next Wednesday so he could study legal aspects of the case.

Odd Reason for Arson

Fight with Girl —Another Fire

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A two-year penitentiary term was imposed Friday on an accountant who set fire to a clothing store to destroy his books, and a second arsonist was remanded to Monday for sentence.

Magistrate Thomas Dohm imposed the two-year sentence on Norman Victor Laird, 35-year-old accountant, for a fire on the premises of Pacific Clothing Ltd. May 9.

Raymond Hogansen, 29, was remanded to Monday by Magistrate Oscar Orr for sentence after admitting setting three fires in the Kitsilano area last January and turning in two false alarms in March.

Hogansen told the court that he set the fires after having fights with his girl friend.

"Every time I have a fight (with her) I get that way," he said.

He is survived by a brother, N. Y. Deslauriers of Vancouver.

Verdict 'Accidental'

ALBERNI—Death of George Gaynor, 53-year-old faller and veteran of some 30 years in the woods, was "purely accidental with no blame attached," according to the verdict of a coroner's jury here this week. Gaynor was crushed by a log.

Among those giving evidence were the other two members of the falling and bucking crew who, with the victim, had been working Wednesday morning in the Ash river area of Sproat lake division, MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. operations, when the accident occurred.

Board, Union Contest Firing of Janitor

DUNCAN — Dismissal of a woman janitress from a district school was contested before an arbitration board this week by the School Board Employees' Federal Union, Local 444.

The board reserved its decision at the conclusion of hearings.

Mrs. Lucy Arnold, janitress of Koksilah school, was dismissed by the school board under a ruling which provides that janitors must be residents of the attendance area served by the school where they work.

She was given 30 days' notice by the board, required by the contract, but on the notice of dismissal the board stated reasons for dismissal.

The position taken by the union is that the board could terminate her employment on 30 days' notice, but because the board in its notice gave reasons for dismissal, it became a case of dismissal for cause.

Reason given by the board was that the janitress lived outside the attendance area. Mrs. Arnold was the first employee to be affected by this ruling. In this case, the position taken by the board is that, regardless of the reasons given, if the board gave 30 days' notice, the dismissal is proper.

[illegible] that this is discriminatory, because the ruling had not been previously applied to other employees. The board contends that there has to be a first some time.

Chairman of the board was Robert Leach, Sidney; for the board, E. E. Pearlman, Victoria, and for the appellant, Clifford Parker, Victoria.

Fast Track, Perfect Weather Indicated for Racing's Return

Unless the unexpected happens between the time this is written and the starting gates open at 2 this afternoon, conditions should be perfect — weather clear, track fast — for the return of thoroughbred racing to Vancouver island.

Racing returns after an eight-year absence to Sidney's Sandown park, where 102 races will be held over 14 days.

EIGHT RACES

Today's opening program lists eight races and there will also be eight on the other two Saturdays of the meet and on closing day, which is Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 10. Seven races will be held on each of the other 10 days.

Interest today is centred on the featured seventh race—the British Columbia Handicap. It will be over six furlongs for a pot of $1,000 and a sterling silver bowl, which will be presented by Premier Bennett.

Magic Note, leading money winner on B.C. tracks this season, will undoubtedly be the favorite in the field of seven but may get quite an argument.

CHIEF THREAT

Chief threat to Tommy Fenton's pride is generally considered to be Dimitri, winner of the Yearling Handicap on the last Saturday at Exhibition Park in Vancouver.

The Yearling Handicap was a unique race in that the winning owner received in addition to the lion's share of the $2,000 purse a yearling worth $2,000. Dimitri's win added Toblas, by Ah, Jr. out of Miss Bam to the stable of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carson of Aldergrove.

Dimitri is also trained by Fenton but Magic Note and Dimitri will not run as an entry. The practise of separate betting when a trainer has more than one horse in a race was started in California last year and can be done at the discretion of the stewards.

EVENLY MATCHED

Evenly matched fields in the other seven races also seem in prospect. This may be particularly true of the eighth race, where any one of the 11 horses entered, including the three also eligibles, wouldn't cause any surprise by winning.

Included in the entry are two Victoria-owned horses who won their last races, Ken Darbyshire's Steven C and Don Carley's Information. Air Lord also won its last start and Bleeker Dutch won three times in its last five races.

There will be no daily double betting but there will be quinella (one-two) betting on the second and last races each day.

Installed at Sandown, where more than $150,000 has been spent since the first of the year to provide a first-class five-furlong racing strip, is the photo finish by "Eye in the Sky." Results in close finishes can be declared within 18 seconds after the horses have crossed the finish line.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Remember Franklin D, Craiglochart, Frisco Boy, Ruby Pagan, Little Gloomy, Plucky Jake, Maid of Broxa, Ascot Maid, Sun Madras, Stockton, Nalod, Gallamar, Bonnie Park, Dry Marsh, Somers Band, Sir Broxa, Kinsail, Nalod, Gene S, Worth Silver and Dolly Somers? And His Brother, the hard-running chestnut gelding owned by Jimmy Fee? And Cherokee Boy?

Some of them were good and some were only fair, but they were among your favorites eight years ago when the last races were run at the Willows.

Cherokee Boy was th last thoroughbred to win a race on Vancouver Island. The five-year-old black found the two-mile distance to his liking in the Au Revoir Handicap and finished 10 lengths in front of Martha's Lad with Marv Moncrief, runner-up to Avelino Gomez for jockey honors, the winning rider. Martha's Lad was 10 lengths in front of the show horse and the final quinella paid $22.15.

His Brother, with old-timer Johnny Hruschak in the irons, was a three-length winner over Malinka and Scotch Lad that last day and the other six winners were Saloptic, Best Dressed, Away Nevada, Gold Bay, Spartan's Last and Dry Marsh.

Eight years is a long time and there will be a whole new crop of horses and a lot of new faces trying to guess them when racing returns to the Island at 2 this afternoon with the start of the first of 102 races to be run over 14 days at Sidney's Sandown park. But there will be a few links with the past.

Tommy Fenton, appropriately enough, is the owner of Magic Note, favored in today's feature race, and the trainer for the highly-regarded Dimitri in the same race. It was Fenton who saddled Cherokee Boy in that last race on Sept. 27, 1948.

The Green Sheet is still with us and so are Walter and Pete Geoghagen, starter Clay Puett and Jack Short, who adds to any meet with his expert calling. Operator Sam Randall has retired, but sons Bill, Bob and Jack have taken over.

There aren't many horses who have survived the eight years but a quick check discloses that LaMouche, Scotch Lad, Valley Band and Joketa ran at the Willows. Among the jockeys at Sandown are two at least who rode at the Oak Bay track—Jim Sivewright and Alex Haller.

Whether or not racing will return to Sandown next year quite probably depends on the interest shown this year. There has been a big increase in population on south Vancouver Island but distance is a factor and weather is all-important. Otherwise, all looks well. The track is only five furlongs but appears to be a good one and the racing should be keen and competitive.

Random Harvest

Before this goes any further should mention, in all fairness, that John "Kiss of Death" Shaw got out of the losing habit by backing the Yankees to win the American League pennant. He was happily collecting last night. Yes, I was among the victims . . . Ken Watson, Canada's best-known curler, will skip a rink during Vancouver's huge Totem (Grey Cup) Bonspiel . . . Viv and Aileen Holman and Ed McKinty enjoyed quite a fishing trip last week-end at Cowichan Bay. Between them, they boated 16 spring salmon, including three weighing more than 30 pounds, and a 27-pounder, and two 12½-pound cohoes . . . and Fred Partridge arrived back in town last night touting the "tackle-busters" he ran into off Qualicum yesterday. Using a Davis Cut Plug and a Mac's Squid plug, he managed to boat two 12-pound cohoes, one 11-pounder and a 10-pounder . . . Inadvertently missed out when the players of Victoria's first Mann Cup champions, the 1919 Foundations, were listed in the Colonist Thursday morning was the name of defenceman Henry Fottinger . . . A reader left the information the bther day that Notre Dame football games will be broadcast every Saturday during the U.S. college football season over KNOP, Port Angeles, starting at 10.45 a.m. Today's game is against Southern Methodist . . . Tomorrow will be an interesting day for television football fans. At 2 p.m. from CBUT (Channel 2) there will be the Sept. 19 game between B.C. Lions and Calgary Stampeders. Starting at 12.45 p.m., there will be today's game between Washington and Minnesota for 75 minutes over KING (Channel 5), which will then carry the National Football League game between San Francisco 49ers and Los Angeles Rams starting at 2. That last one should be a dandy . . . B.C. Lions have an odd record this season. They have lost three of four games at home but balanced their record by winning three of four on the road . . . Curling at the Alberni Valley Curling Club will start on Oct. 15 with a mixed bonspiel set for Oct. 18.

Jones Beats Christensen

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ralph Tiger Jones, clubbing his way to victory with hard rights, won a unanimous 10-round decision Friday night over Chris Christensen, Danish welterweight and middleweight champion.

Jones, fighting at 158 pounds, six pounds heavier than Christensen, absorbed the heavy jabs of his slender opponent, virtually ignoring them as he sought to land his more telling blows. He reddened Christensen's eye and had it nearly closed by the end of the fight.

Top Jockey To Receive Wrist Watch

Leading rider of the Sandown racing meet will receive an engraved Omega wrist watch.

Announcement of the award to the top jockey, a popular feature at the Willows when racing was held in Victoria at the Oak Bay track, was made last night by Hugh Francis of Francis Jewelers.

The riding championship will be decided on a points basis. A win will count four points, a place finish two points and one point will be given for showing.

Jockey standings will be carried daily in the Colonist, starting tomorrow morning.

Avelino Gomez won the honors at the last Willows meet in 1948. In those days the prize was a silver fox fur donated by a Vancouver furrier.

Exhibition Games

Two Victoria District Football League exhibition games have been scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday.

Butler Brothers play Dutch Wanderers at Central park, while Heaney's meet Tillicums at Windsor park.

Archie Takes Count

Ancient Archie Moore's game bid to wrest the world's heavyweight crown from Rocky Marciano ended as the dazed light-heavyweight king took a full count, top, after the Brocton Blockbuster's blistering punches had left him helpless on the ropes in the ninth round of their stirring battle at Yankee Stadium, Wednesday. However, the 38-year-old Moore got away to a great start and earned the distinction of dropping the champ for a four count in the second round. Rocky, shown above as he hit the canvas for the second time in his 49-bout career, came back to throw the full power of his primitive attack against the challenger and retain his unbeaten record.

Whopping Guarantee May Tempt Rocky

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP) — The "brain guys" behind Archie Moore will soon offer Rocky Marciano a guarantee of $350,000 for a return heavyweight title defence in June, it was learned reliably Friday.

Such a whopping guarantee—the largest in 23 years—would wrap up a repeat performance of the great Marciano-Moore fight staged at Yankee Stadium Wednesday night before 61,574, the Moore men think.

It could prevent manager Al Weill from selecting a less dangerous challenger for Rocky, as he did last May when he accepted Don Cockell on England for the lop-sided defence at San Francisco.

WHO ELSE

Rocky's purse from Wednesday's ninth-round kayo of Moore approximates $400,000, without the movies. But Messrs. Charley Johnston and Jack Kearns ask, "What opponent can bring him that kind of money in June — except Moore"

Johnston is Moore's manager of record. Kearns — the fight game's master manoeuverer — claims to be "just an old-time buddy of Charley's." However, that friendship never really blossomed until Johnston's Moore won the light heavyweight championship from Kearns' Joey Maxim in December, 1952.

Neither Johnston nor Kearns would confirm plans for the $350,000 guarantee yesterday. Johnston said, "No plans for Archie have been completed yet." Kearns said, "You'll have to ask Johnston. He's the manager."

If such an offer were made and accepted, it probably would be a secret deal to prevent tarnishing promoter Jim Norris' proposed elimination tournament to determine the June challenger.

Norris said that 38-year-old Archie would have to compete in the elimination in order to earn consideration as the June challenger. Other tourney contenders might be Nino Valdes, Hurricane Jackson, Bob Baker, young Floyd Patterson and Franco Cavicchi of Italy, champion of Europe.

New York Yankees are champions of the American League for the sixth time in seven years.

They clinched the pennant yesterday while Cleveland's second-place Indians were kept idle by rain at Detroit by winning the second game of a doubleheader from Boston Red Sox, 3-2.

The Red Sox had kept Cleveland's dim hopes alive by winning the first game, 8-4.

Victory in the second game moved the Yanks three and a half games ahead of the Indians, who will finish at least one game out even if they win all of their remaining two games and the Yankees lose the two they have left.

RARE PROPHET

Yesterday's was the 95th victory for the New Yorkers and made manager Casey Stengel a rare prophet. That's the number of games he had earlier estimated would be necessary to win.

The Yankees now meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the world series, which opens on Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

Southpaw Whitey Ford, who has been sizzling in the stretch drive which saw the Yanks pull away from the Chicago White Sox, was the winning eight in a row before losing yesterday, was the big man in the pennant clincher.

Ford came on in the seventh inning after three successive singles had plated the first run off starter Don Larsen. The chunky lefthander walked Billy Klaus to load the bags, and then Ted Williams rapped into an inning-ending double play on a 3-1 pitch.

JENSEN HOMERS

Jackie Jensen hit his 26th home run off Ford in the eighth to bring the Bosox within a run but Ford closed the door there.

Yanks scored twice in the first inning, one run coming on Gil McDougald's 13th home run. What proved to be the winning run scored on a pinch single by Eddie Robinson in the fifth. The losing pitcher was Willard Nixon, an old Yankee nemesis.

In the first game, the Red Sox got two runs off Tommy Byrne in the second inning and drove the veteran left to cover in the third with a six-run outburst.

JUST IN CASE

When Gerry Coleman tossed out Eddie Joost for the final out in the second game, the entire Yankee bench swarmed on the field before the players headed for the clubhouse, where champagne had been kept cold just in case.

Only positions left to decide in the American League were seventh and eighth places. Washington Senators moved within a game of the seventh-place Baltimore team by taking a doubleheader from the Orioles, who had been on a late-season binge to get out of the cellar.

Durocher, Giants To Part Company

Manager Leo Durocher and the New York Giants will part company at the end of the season and Bill Rigney, who has managed the Giants' farm team at Minneapolis this season, will take over as pilot of the National League club, it was reported in New York yesterday.

It was said that the decision was reached recently at a meeting of the board of directors but neither club officials nor Durocher would confirm or deny the story.

"No comment," was the word from the Giants while Durocher said that he would "have a talk with Mr. Stoneham (Horace Stoneham, club owner) soon and it will be settled then."

FRICK GETS TOUGH: Baltimore Orioles, who have been in trouble before this season over signing of bonus players, were fined $2,000 yesterday by baseball-commissioner Ford Frick and general-manager Paul Richards was fined $2,500 for "conduct detrimental to baseball in connection with the signing of pitcher Thomas Borland.

In addition, Frick warned Richards that any further violations will result in his being declared ineligible "for one or more years."

Frick found that Borland had been signed to a contract calling for payments of $40,000 over three seasons but the contract had not been filed with the American League president for approval.

After tryouts had indicated Borland wouldn't be useful to the Orioles, he was induced to sign with Oakland for $4,000 a year.

Borland was made a free agent.

Injury to Klosterman Gives Bill Stevenson Chance with Calgary

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fate's fickle finger has pointed another Canadian quarterback toward the door of opportunity in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Bill Stevenson, 20-year-old ex-University of Toronto quarterback, gets a chance he has waited for all year Saturday night when he takes over full-time chores for Calgary's split-T Stampeders in a game against the undefeated Edmonton Eskimos.

Import Don Klosterman from Loyola University in California, Stampeders' regular field general, was knocked out of action last weekend by a back injury suffered in a game against British Columbia Lions. He won't get into either of Calgary's two weekend games.

The Stamps play at home Saturday night, then go to Winnipeg for a Monday night encounter against Blue Bombers who meet Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina Saturday. Eskimos meet Lions at Vancouver Monday night after their Saturday game at Calgary.

Stevenson, who with Klosterman makes up the Calgary quarterback roster, goes against the same team which last weekend had to send its Canadian quarter into full-time action because of an injury.

Stevenson, who played from the University of Western Ontario who played against Stevenson in the eastern college conference last year, stepped into the shoes of Mississippi State graduate Jackie Parker, out with a throat infection, and led Esks to their seventh and eighth straight victories of the season. And Parker will be back Saturday night, giving Esks a double-barrelled win combination.

Meeting Eskimos makes Stevenson's first major assignment a tough one. Further complicating his task is the fact he himself is just recovered from a shoulder injury suffered last weekend and the Stamps best pass receiver—Willie Roberts is out with a sprained ankle.

CANADIAN BACKFIELD

The Calgary quarterback may get some help from 1953 WIFU all-star Lynn Bottoms, a halfback who graduated from Calgary junior ranks. Coach Jack Hennemier said homebrew backfield — Stevenson, Bottoms may move into the quarter slot if Stevenson needs aid.

Hennemier is going all out with his Canadians, starting with an all-Bottoms, Joe Yamauchi, formerly of Edmonton juniors, and Baz Nagle and Pete Muir, both Vancouver junior graduates.

The league-leading Eskimos will be strengthened with the return of Parker as quarter and of halfback Rollie Miles to both offensive and defensive duty. Miles played mainly on defence in the last two games because of injuries.

Elsewhere, Roughrider coach Frank Filchock said a touch of lethargy may have been partly responsible for Saskatchewan's poor showing during the last two games, both of which Riders lost, dropping them to a second-place tie with B.C.

LIONS GET REST

Blue Bombers, tied with Calgary in fourth place, have only one injury on the roster—Dick Huffman who suffered a hurt leg in last Monday's game at Edmonton. He is expected to play, however. Coach Al Sherman said he hopes for a double win this weekend, but is worried about the Riders.

"I don't think they're as bad off as everyone is making them out to be," he said.

British Columbia gets a rest Saturday night and will be out in top shape against Eskimos Monday. Guard Walt Cyz, who had a knee injury, is the only player who will miss the game. Quarter Arnold Galiffa and fullback Al Pollard are fully recovered from head injuries suffered in the Calgary game last Monday.

Stay-at-Home Bettors Plagued By Success of 'Surprise Entries'

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—It could happen only in Britain.

Only in this confused country, said the crestfallen turf clairvoyant could a similar horror smite an honest horseplayer—namely, races won by equine ghosts.

Consider a recent afternoon at Sandown Park. There are six races and you have a good thing going in every heat. You pay your money you pick up your late paper—and you learn that three of the races were won by horses whose names didn't even show in the entries.

The reason? A macabre British refinement known as the "surprise entry." Under this system, probable starters are listed in the morning newspapers. Nine times of 10, the list stands up. But occasionally a horse is declared a last-minute runner, and only those betting on the course know about the surprise starter.

BETTING BLIND

Thus the stay-at-home bettog is betting blind. If a horse he has been following pops up unexpectedly at a long price, all he can do is swear off the sport.

In the Republic of Ireland, such things as not tolerated. The Irish insist on overnight declarations. Occasionally there is a clamor for a similar system in England, Scotland and Wales, but most racing writers pooh-pooh the idea.

One objection is based on the fact that Britain's 30-odd major courses are scattered across the country. Trainers often send their charges hundreds of miles to a meeting. Because of sudden changes in track conditions they don't like to have to make up their minds the night before.

STUNNED SPECULATORS

In any given week there are seldom more than two or three unexpected starters—but by some perverse irony almost all of them win.

Thus at Sandown Sept. 10, three last-minute entries—Coello, Madam Awkward and High Bhan—stunned the stay-at-home speculators. Sport ing Life, top text-book of the British turf, admitted it was "rather hard" on those who weren't at the track. The intruders were the only late runners, and all won.

A notable case of the late entry occurred in a famous race at Royal Ascot a couple of years ago. With the usual 20 or so horses entered in this big betting event, turf writers spilled thousands of words discussing the relative chances of the "probables." Came race day, and the winner turned out to be Jupiter, declared a runner only half an hour before the event.

Prefect To Represent Canada in Rich Race

LONDON (CP)—Prefect, a five-year-old English handicapper just short of the top class, will run for Canada in the big International Invitation race at Laurel Park in Maryland, it was disclosed Friday.

Alberta Ranches, the Canadian turf syndicate which ran Indian Hemp unsuccessfully in the same race three years ago, bought Prefect this week from British automobile executive Jack Olding and will ship the brown colt to the United States in time for the Nov. 11 race, worth $50,000 to the winner.

Prefect will probably go along with Sir Percy Loraine's Darius and Joe McGrath's Panaslipper, two other likely starters in the Laurel feature. American entries will be decided by a panel of sports writers.

LEADING BUYER

Prefect's purchase was negotiated by Max Bell, 44-year-old Calgary newspaper publisher and oil man who has been a leading post-war buyer of British bloodstock. He declined to say how much he paid for Prefect, a son of Preciptic out of the Nearco mare Sarie.

"I think the whole conception of the Laurel race is wonderful," said the Canadian owner, a supporter of international racing. Bell's stable has had runners in England, Ireland, Canada and the United States. Once Alberta Ranches had horses going in three countries on the same day.

BIG BUYING WEEK

This has been a big week for Canadian purchases in Britain. Dicer, a five-year-old by River Prince, was bought for George Gardiner of Toronto. Charles Burns of Toronto paid 680 guineas for the two-year-old winner Mend-A-Tear and Bell bought two yearlings at Dublin.

Prefect, never out of the money this season, used to be regarded as a temperamental animal who had to be held up for a late run, but he appears to have developed increasing stamina with age. His purchase represents an experiment. Bell wants to discover whether senior English horses will maintain their form on the U. S. turf.

In the past, British-bred horses have usually been shipped at an early age and given a chance to accustom themselves to the different track conditions in North America.

He took over as coach of Toronto Maple Leafs before the 1953-54 season.

Argos Need Victory Over Riders Today

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two big "ifs" are to be answered this week-end in the Big Four.

If Toronto Argonauts can get unwound and if Montreal Alouettes repeat their win of last week-end, three teams will be in a tie for second place.

If Argos don't win, they'll be far in the hole in the Big Four standing. They play Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa while Montreal plays Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton. A crowd of 19,000 is expected for that one.

Als are two points on top in the standing. Ottawa and Hamilton share second place with four points each and Argos trail with two points. If Argos and Montreal win, the Als will be way out in front with four wins and a loss for eight points and the other three in second place with two wins and three losses for four points.

NEWCOMERS PLAYING

Ottawa will have two, and Argos one new player for their game today. Halfback Corky Tharp, former Alabama star cut this week by Detroit Lions, joined Argos Friday to replace J. C. Caroline who was placed on waivers.

Tharp is rated as a good pass receiver, something Argos didn't have in Caroline. The 175-pound newcomer can play a good defensive game as well.

Ottawa will have Jack Scarbath, a new split-T quarterback from the University of Maryland, and halfback Bernie Custis, released by Hamilton last week.

Mrs. Husband Downs Mrs. Weston in Final

Mrs. Harold Husband yesterday succeeded Mrs. H. G. Mearns as women's champion of the Victoria Golf Club.

Mrs. Husband, winner of the title three years ago, defeated Mrs. S. Weston, one-up, in the 18-hole final. Mrs. Weston captured the crown in 1949.

In consolation final, Mrs. J. D. Munro edged Mrs. V. Godfrey at the 19th hole.

Mrs. E. Gillespie was named winner of the Alexander Vase with a low-net score of 72.

Results of the other finals played yesterday:

First flight—Mrs. O. E. Harris defeated Mrs. E. Gillespie, 2 and 1.
Second flight—Miss Jane Warter defeated Mrs. H. Hadley, 2 up.
Third flight—Miss Joan Pertt defeated Mrs. A. Gonnason, 2 and 1.

'Unworked Potential' Church Crusade Aim

An "unworked potential" must be put to work during the national stewardship crusade of the United Church of Canada, Rev. W. J. H. Smyth of Toronto told Victoria presbytery members at meetings last week.

Explaining stewardship as "recognition that we are just trustees and that all belongs to the Creator," Mr. Smyth said church members must become "convinced, converted, committed stewards."

Of more than 400,000 persons who gave to local United churches last year, one third did not contribute to the global work of the church. If they had, revenue for global work would have increased by at least $2,300,000.

To work "this unworked potential," Mr. Smyth urged stewardship schools in every presbytery and visits to all church members.

Missionary and maintenance department of the church begins the stewardship crusade Tuesday, and speakers will visit Victoria Nov. 2.

PREPARE FOR RALLY

Preparation for a United Church national evangelistic campaign, which will be held during September, 1956, includes a "retreat" at Oak Bay United Church from 10 a.m. to 2.30 p.m. Monday. All ministers in this area will attend, and speakers will be Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James, Rev. Douglas Pilkey and Rev. William Buckingham.

Following this mission for re-consecration of ministers is a school of evangelism for church workers.

Atonement Services On Monday

Services will be held at Temple Emanu-El, Blanshard and Pandora, from 9 a.m. to sunset Monday, the Day of Atonement and 10th day of the Jewish year 5716.

Cantors S. Graudenz of Seattle and Jacob Narod of Victoria will also preside at a service at 7.30 p.m. tomorrow, when the day of fasting begins.

Guest minister at Centennial United at evening service tomorrow will be Rev. T. H. Lonsdale of Banff, Alta. His topic will be "Unto the Hills."

Artist preacher Rev. Paul Cantelon and his evangelistic party will continue appearances at Glad Tidings Tabernacle until Oct. 2. Services are held at 11 a.m. and 3 and 7.30 p.m. Sundays and 8 p.m. week days, except Monday.

Awards will be presented during "Promotion Day" in Sunday school at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at 11 a.m.

At First United, Sunday school students are asked to arrive by 2.45 p.m. tomorrow for rally day service. Parents are also invited to attend.

Rev. R. R. Cunningham of Vancouver will lead meetings at 7.30 p.m. Oct. 16 and at 8 p.m. each day that week until Friday, in Metropolitan United Church. At a special meeting in the same church Oct. 28, speaker will be Rev. Dr. H. H. McConnell, a Methodist from New York.

United Church officials have also disclosed that Sub-Ltd. Richard Stone, engine-room officer graduate from Royal Roads and former member of the church young people's group, left Victoria to join the Billy Graham evangelistic team in Toronto.

Vast Growth Noted In United Church

Membership in the United Church of Canada was 894,556 last year, an increase of almost 50 per cent since the church union of 1925, national church officials in Toronto have disclosed.

Biggest increase since church union is in value of property, $227,195,352 last year, or three times the amount 30 years before.

Salaries paid to United Church ministers increased from $4,795,466 to $7,354,131 in the same period, while gifts to the missionary and maintenance fund were almost doubled, at $4,309,844.

During 1954, a record number of 38,196 persons was received into the church. Sunday school membership rose from 605,573 to 636,664 children.

Funds raised for all purposes during the year totalled $36,735,641.

Officials completed the report with these statistics:

The United Church of Canada has 2,691 pastoral charges, 6,222 preaching places, 3,178 ministers and 5,257 Sunday schools. Last year, in the United Church, 28,255 funerals, 29,506 marriages and 62,197 baptisms took place.

Message from the Minister

Men's Works But Transitory

Another in a series of messages from Greater Victoria churchmen appearing each week on The Daily Colonist church page.

REV. NORMAN A. LOWE
Vicar, Brentwood College Memorial Chapel

We live in a wonderful age. Dead must be be of soul who is not aware of exciting trends of thought as well as the almost daily discovery of new things.

Of all the periods of history this is the one of greatest and most rapid change. I like to think of it as a period in which the human race is beginning to grow up. But are we growing up quickly enough to give proper direction to the things which are changing?

The world is full of the desolate remains of empires and systems built by the power of man. In every age, men of God have seen the seeds of destruction in the evil and self-will of men, long before disaster came.

We are still trusting in the efforts of man to make this world a safe and fit one, but now, our prophets, including men of science, say we have God-given powers to destroy this man-made world or bless it.

Have we grown to the point where we can trust God and build a world kingdom according to His specifications and by His power? I believe many people have grown to such stature. Let us hope so, because it is not possible for us to bungle along for another few centuries.

In some directions, however, the growth of one's social consciousness is too slow. Our awareness of the need for the Christian education of our children is growing too slowly.

While it is growing, those whom we hope will become citizens of the world kingdom of tomorrow are deprived of the very foundations on which this kingdom of peace and righteousness can be built.

How ridiculous it is to think that the church school in 30 minutes to one hour a week can complete the religious education of our children. The average child spends much more time in public school, at the movies, watching television, listening to the radio and reading comics than he does in church school, if he goes at all.

Here in B.C., we could use the help of the public schools, where it is now forbidden to teach religion.

The B.C. Committee on Religion in Eudcation, representing six leading denominations, has made a careful study of how best the public school can help. The committe has reached such agreement of aims that it has been able to publish a report on its findings and discuss its conclusions with the education department.

It is a large job, but one for which the church has many plans. But none of us can afford to leave this task to someone else.

Outlawing of Sympathy Picketing By Unions Urged by B.C. Chamber

Legislation to prevent sympathy picketing by unions, and legislation to ensure the right to work, were urged on the provincial cabinet by the B.C. Chamber of Commerce in a brief yesterday.

The request was one of 23 resolutions presented to the cabinet by delegates from the provincial chamber.

The resolution on labor said there should be laws to prevent unions or individuals from picketing when they are not directly involved in a dispute.

The brief also singled out such matters as natural resources, transportation, tourist and recreational facilities and agriculture; and contained a commendation of the government for its efforts in encouraging development of resources and secondary industry in the province.

The group recommended close co-operation with the federal government on matters concerning downstream benefits of hydro-electric development on international rivers.

RAIN-MAKING CURBS

It asked for government control of rain-making devices.

On transportation the chamber urged the government to make public at intervals its plans for long-range main highway development, made suggestions for road construction and routes and urged uniformity with other provinces on trucking laws.

The chamber commended the government's work on parks and camp sites; urged that further agreements be made with logging companies to provide for public parks; and suggested a committee of interested citizens to assist the government in restoration of historical objects and sites.

A chamber spokesman said the brief omitted a policy statement on provincial finance and taxation but told the cabinet that "it should not be construed from these omissions that the chamber now supports actions of the government that last year it protested."

War Games All Set

Canada's first combined operations beach landing exercise since the Second World War will take place at 2:30 this afternoon at Ocean Beach, near Metchosin.

More than 600 men will take part in the operation, including navy crews for two frigates and five landing barges, 190 officers and men of the Second Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, a platoon of Canadian Scottish militia regiment and 25 jet and fighter aircraft of the RCAF.

The scheme will simulate as closely as possible a dawn attack on an enemy coast and the assault on the beach will take place in three waves with army troops climbing several hundred feet up a steep cliff with the aid of ropes to a "guided missile station" at the top.

The raiders capture valuable equipment, prisoners, and blow up the station. Counter attack troops will engage the assault force and an "enemy" Bren gun carrier will be engaged and put out of action.

CAMERAS ALLOWED

The operation will be open to public view and cameras will be permitted. Parking space has been provided off Hatley drive near the Victoria Gun Club on Metchosin road. Directional signs will be placed from Colwood.

First view the public will have will be at 2:15 p.m. when navy ships and landing craft rendezvous about a mile off Albert head.

Navy gunners will lay down a bombardment and smoke screens and a warlike effect will be created by blowing up demolition charges.

All demolition areas will be marked off by white tape.

Purpose of the scheme, in addition to showing the public how one phase of military operation is conducted, is to give the services training in co-operation.

Combined Ops Rehearsal

Commando-style, with rifles held high and hand grenades around their waists, Riflemen J. A. Lepine and L. C. Weldman of the Queen's Own Rifles, leap over obstacles in a dress rehearsal for today's combined operations assault at Ocean Beach, near Metchosin. The public is invited to watch the combined operations today.

Beware Beguiling Smiles

Drew Says Free Vote Test Of Red Leaders' Sincerity

By RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

A warning that the western nations should not be beguiled into a policy of appeasement by the smiles of Russian leaders was given yesterday by Conservative national leader George Drew.

Speaking to a joint meeting of the Victoria men's and women's Canadian Clubs at a noon luncheon, Mr. Drew said the United Nations should demand that Russia prove her good faith by giving "a free vote to the nations now in slavery."

The Conservative leader also told his audience he believed the time for recognition and admission to the UN of Red China was not here yet. He said the "tormented millions enslaved behind the Iron Curtain" must not be led to believe that Canada and other western countries are giving approval "to an aggressor whose hands are still red with the blood of young Canadians slaughtered in Korea.

"And we are certainly not helping a Chinese [illegible] forward to the recognition of Red China."

The free nations must learn a lesson from the policy of appeasement which caused the "failure of a dream," the failure of the League of Nations, Mr. Drew warned.

He said one-third of all mankind is still living under the crippling slavery of Communism.

He said despite the "signs of hope which emerged from Geneva" (the Summit conference) there was little hope for "the tormented millions now held prisoners by Soviet Russia."

"If at any point we are prepared to forget moral issues to achieve some temporary expediency, then the UN will go as the League of Nations did before," Mr. Drew predicted.

He said peace was possible only if "the strong nations of the west stand firm on the principle that all nations have the right to be free and choose their own forms of government."

Trade with Red China should be on a practical business basis not on a diplomatic level.

OTHER NATIONS

Other nations like Portugal and Northern Ireland still not in the UN should be given consideration first, he said. "Why China?" he asked. "Because it is bigger?"

Instead of talking about admission of Red China, the Conservative leader said, "we should be placing before the UN plans for giving those nations promised freedom at San Francisco (Big Four conference) a free vote."

"Why should we not ask Russia to accept the principle they agreed to at San Francisco — test their good faith—ask them: 'Will you give a vote to the nations now in slavery?'" he demanded.

Zone Rally To Open Here

A four-day zone meeting of the National Association of Electrical Distributors, one of the biggest hard goods trade associations in the United States, opens in the Empress Hotel Sunday.

Delegates will be welcomed by F. W. Arnott, vice-president of British Columbia Electric Co., and L. D. Pulsifer, Pacific district manager of Canadian Westinghouse Supply Co., Vancouver.

Pink Salmon Pack 25-Year Record

British Columbia's pink salmon pack—811,000 cases—is the biggest reached on the Pacific coast in 25 years, according to A. J. Whitmore, federal chief supervisor of fisheries.

Coho and blueback pack of 162,000 cases is the highest number since the record year of 1951 and the spring salmon pack of 16,300 cases is the largest since 1949, he said.

Despite a poor salmon run early in the season, fisheries officials believe the late surge of heavy catches will boost the volume to a good average yearly production mark.

Much of the late recovery was credited to good runs of pink salmon in northern areas, where earlier spawning reports were not encouraging. For a short period seiners and gill netters took a good harvest of pinks in Juan de Fuca strait and Johnstone strait from runs seeking the Fraser river and streams in Puget sound, Vancouver island and the lower mainland.

Cars Crash Head-On, Three Hurt

Special to The Colonist

CAMPBELL RIVER — Three persons were injured in a head-on collision on the Island highway about two miles south of here at about 8:30 p.m. yesterday.

A car driven south by William Roberts of Campbell River was in collision with a northbound car on a sight curve in the road.

Police are withholding names of the two men who were in the northbound car pending notification of next of kin. One of the men is in serious condition in Lourdes hospital.

Mrs. Roberts, only passenger in the other car, is in hospital with a possible rib fracture.

Purchasing Agents Compare Spending

Representatives of an organization which has no constitution or statutes met here yesterday for informal discussion of the best ways to spend the public dollar.

Close to 25 purchasing agents from public bodies in B.C., Washington and Oregon gathered for the semi-annual meeting of Pacific Northwest Buyers' Association.

Keynote of the meeting was informality as the buyers described the ways they found most practical to purchase goods for school boards, hospitals, harbor board and other public organizations.

"We have no rules or regulations. Delegates bring up topics for general discussion, that's all," said Walter B. Dickieson, purchasing agent for the Greater Victoria school board.

Mr. Dickieson was elected president of the body yesterday.

"Unlike competitive salesmen, we are all out to be as co-operative as we can," Mr. Dickieson added. "We discuss ideas which will enable us to keep expenditures from the public purse as low as possible."

New secretary of the association is Jack Chadwick of Vancouver.

Defence Experts Will Meet Here

A three-man team of civil defence communications experts will conduct a detailed discussion at Victoria civil defence headquarters, 672 Cormorant, Monday at 7:30 p.m. They will also investigate facilities available for emergency communications set up in the area.

'Frosh' Abandon Sarongs, Sacks; Studies Begin

Sarongs and sack vests can be put away, for "Frosh Week" ended last night, and 270 freshmen and freshettes at Victoria College can concentrate on their studies from now on.

The "African jungle" theme was all important as first-year students concluded Frosh Week by toting a tally-ho and its cargo of sophomores from the post office building down Yates and Douglas to the Crystal Garden, stopping traffic as usual.

These were the costumes worn by the college newcomers all day yesterday:

For the young men—sarongs with a blue and gold sash at the waist, half of the face covered with black makeup, hair parted in the middle and slicked down at the sides; Robin Hood hats, a gumboot and a running shoe.

For young women—sack vests, short skirts with slits, face makeup of red or black polka dots, red noses, VC painted on the forehead, hair in ringlets and men's odd shoes.

Frosh Week ended with the annual Frosh dance at the Crystal Garden.

Prehistoric Cave Drawings Gave Birth to the Film

"The History of Motion Pictures," a series of eight monthly night school classes which began at the Ewing building at Victoria College last night, reads just like a Hollywood script.

First scene was a cave in Spain where historians have found wall drawings of 25,000 years ago which try to show animals in motion. There was also a Javanese shadow play of 5,000 BC, but motion gadgets did not become popular until 1826 AD.

Norman Barton, UBC extension department official, said the Lumiere brothers of France, and not Edison, projected the first movie to the public. Date was Dec. 28, 1895, and the brothers thought their novelty might last one or two years.

One man who might have beaten this mark was apparently murdered. A color system before Technicolor amply vanished.

First lecture concluded with "The Great Train Robbery" of 1903. Future lectures will deal with movies from Britain, Europe, Asia, the United States, and, finally, Canada.

Triple Toxoid for Children Urged for Immunization Week

Local medical health officers have joined with others across the country on the eve of national immunization week in stressing the importance of immunizing children.

The special week sponsored by the Health League of Canada, is from Sept. 25 to Oct. 1.

Thirteen years ago, when the week was first marked, there were 2,804 cases of diphtheria in Canada with 287 deaths, six cases of smallpox with no deaths and 19,082 cases of whooping cough with 416 deaths.

In 1954, despite a greatly increased population, there were 208 cases of diphtheria with 18 deaths, no cases of smallpox, and 11,600 cases of whooping cough with 157 deaths.

The health league has pointed out that triple protection is available through a preparation combining whooping cough vaccine and diphtheria and tetanus toxoids. Because of the high mortality from whooping cough in the first six months of life, it said, it is desirable to begin immunization early, preferable at three months of age.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, acting Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer, said the triple-protection preparation is the type offered free by the health services of Greater Victoria.

Free immunization is provided every Wednesday and Thursday afternoon, without appointment, at the Victoria-Esquimalt health centre on Cook street. The service is also available in Saanich and Oak Bay clinics. Information on times and places can be obtained from the Saanich and Oak Bay health departments.

Frenchwomen Not Rushing For Any Alphabet Line

By GLORIA SWANSON

PARIS (UP) — I can remember the day when Longchamps, Paris fashionable race track, was also a style show, where you could see the very latest (right) off the griddle.

Most of the ladies went to the races to see their [illegible] were wearing "last year's" models.

I had seen only five attractive dresses when [illegible] were worn last year.

"But why," I asked, "don't you like the new 'Y' look of Dior or the draping of Givenchy?"

Dead silence. Until one charming and very outspoken old gal with a French title and an Ohio background said "Gloria, surely you know why everyone is wearing last year's clothes in the middle of September."

I knew, of course, why I was wearing a three-year suit, but I said "No" and that little word was all the encouragement she needed. Of course my ears were flapping as she told me that "the collections were made for buyers (mostly Americans) and tourists — they have to cause a sensation or there would be nothing to talk about.

"Naturally the Frenchwoman is too conservative for modern clothes and at this moment she has nothing to wear. But wait until next month — that's another story, when collections are designed especially for her."

I asked what would happen to Mr. Dior's alphabet look. What a nice husky laugh she had.

"Well my dear, our French women didn't accept the 'H' and 'A' and I hardly think she will want to look like 'Y'."

I couldn't help interjecting that I personally couldn't wait for the "O" look for I was sure it was going to be the most comfortable of all.

With that somebody shouted "Gloria, you long-stay beauty" came in second." I made the saucy remark that one could never depend on "beauty."

Two were my friends, Mrs. Bertram Taylor, who the last few years has been spending more time in Europe than America, was wearing a very smart suit of brown and black tweed trimmed with black Persian lamb. Arlette Marchal, who played Napoleon's sister in "Madame Sans Gene" when I made the movie here in Paris in 1925, was also very smart in a tiny black and white check suit. Both these ladies [illegible] were wearing "last year's" models.

Married 62 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mason, 24 Lotus street, who were married 62 years ago in St. Mary's church, Rushden, England, will celebrate their anniversary today and will be at home to their friends from 2 to 5 this afternoon and from 6 to 7 in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Mason came to Canada in 1906 and lived in Toronto until 1944 when they moved west to Victoria. They have two daughters and two sons in Ontario and one daughter, Mrs. A. C. Craib, in Victoria as well as nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. Mr. Mason is a veteran of the First World War.

Wins Scholarship

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP) — Virginia Chambers, 20-year-old Canadian soprano, has won a scholarship to the Pius XII Institute of Fine Arts of Florence and now is preparing to sail for Italy from Quebec on Sept. 28.

To gain a place at the institute Virginia sent tape recordings of six songs, including Donizetti's aria "O Mio Fernando" from "La Favorita" [illegible] she could sing in French, German and Italian as well as speak Italian fluently.

Virginia, as it happened, learned to speak Italian through friends who had migrated from Italy. And am I over glad she said. "I'll be taking classes at the University of Florence and the lectures will all be in Italian."

Among her musical trophies are the cross-Canada piano finals at the 1955 Stratford music festival where she also won $100 for the "most promising woman's voice" the 1955 gold medal in voice from the western conservatory of music and an association [illegible] from the Royal Conservatory of Toronto.

She plans to visit Paris and Milan before settling down to work in Florence. Her piano and voice study will be under direction of professors at the Cherubini Institute of Music.

Her shoulder length veil was held from a tiara of seed pearl-studded lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, orchids and white stephanotis.

Guests at the wedding were seated by Mr. Ken Greenwood, Victoria, and Mr. K. Vander Haeghe, Errington, and given to the bride by her father, who wore a grey morning suit with white accessories and a boutonniere of white carnations.

Mrs. Marie Ward, Victoria, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was of pink taffeta with full skirt and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Gown of pink taffeta with full skirt was worn by the bridesmaid, Miss K. Vander Haeghe, who also wore a corsage of matching pink roses. For her attire and maples dark brown, the groom's sister, Miss Marion Schultz, chosen by the bride, the Errington and green carnations from Victoria. Their matching head dresses were studded with seed pearls and they carried colonial bouquets of mixed gladiolus and pink carnations.

Mr. Lloyd Hursley gave the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in Errington Scout League hall.

6 IN MEMORIAM

SINCLAIR In loving memory of a husband and father, George B. Sinclair, who passed away Sept. 24, 1950.
In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
You couldn't stay and pray.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you waking
To suffer that again.
Always missed and lovingly remembered by your wife and family.

By ROY PARRETT

The commotion set up in the Hollywood Pantages Theatres five times daily last week will be heard again and again in a rising swell. Boos, catcalls and whistling greeted the trailers advertising the exclusive TV showing of the Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore fight—at an admission price of $1 to $6 per seat.

In Los Angeles theatres which billed the closed circuit fight, the reception was equally hostile. The reaction to the "captive" hookup for the champion bout cannot be taken lightly.

Only 1,000 lucky people were able to see the major sporting event in theatres in the San Francisco area. Several million sports fans, who would have liked to have seen the fight on TV were denied the opportunity because of big fight "politics."

The supporters of pay-as-you-see television were quick to seize the occasion to get in another plug for coaxing TV. But the Federal Communications Commission has yet to rule on the legality of television, as it is called.

Probably no one knows the answer to the problem of presenting major sports events on TV. There is plenty of foggy thinking on both sides of the question.

One thing is sure however. Public opinion is rising and some positive action is sure to follow.

SIMPLE ANSWER Police officials in a small town in the United States were surprised to receive reports of a wild man "peeping into homes" last week.

"We have had peeping toms before, but never a peeping lane," the local sheriff stated.

The explanation seemed logical when the prowler, a lone chimpanzee, was caught.

"We don't have television and I was only trying to find out if that marine wound like the $64,000 question," she said.

COLORCASTS Three more color TV sets arrived in the city this week. These viewers will be able to watch programs in full color on KING-TV at 11 this morning, on KOMO-TV at 11:30 a.m., and on KTNT-TV at 6:30. Other TV fans will see the same shows in regular black and white.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1♡	Pass
1♠	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
2♣	All Pass

It has been drilled into the heads of bridge beginners that a minimum response in no-trump is the way to show a comparatively weak hand. There is good reason for this when a player holds a balanced hand, but if you use the principle on an unbalanced hand, you may be weakening the tricktaking power of your cards by more than the amount of weakness you are trying to show.

When it became North's turn to bid over partner's one-spade call, he looked at his three queens and two jacks and decided he had better reveal his high-card anemia and, at the same time, indicate his stoppers in diamonds. South decided that he didn't want to play the hand at no-trump if North had a weak hand (a decision that was correct since one no-trump couldn't be made with any reasonable defence). This gave North a second chance to correct the contract to two hearts, but he decided that his singleton spade offered ruffing prospects and he passed.

West opened a trump, however, and North's ruffing values promptly disappeared. East took the ace and returned a club. North won and declarer finessed the queen of diamonds. West held up the king, but won with that card when South repeated the finesse. Declarer had to yield three spades, a heart, a diamond, and two club tricks, for a loss of 200 points. But the loss was much greater than that, for North could have made three hearts for game and rubber.

Played at no-trump or clubs, North's hand was worth two tricks. Played at hearts, it would win between six and seven. North should have rebid two hearts over one spade. He should surely have rebid two hearts over two clubs. When he failed to do so, it was like giving away a fortune in order to be able to boast of being poor.

Top Nazis May Be Freed

BERLIN (AP)—Allied circles indicated Thursday they are awaiting developments which may result in the freeing of six top Nazis in Spandau prison.

One official, who declined to be identified, said he wouldn't be surprised if four-power negotiations are opened shortly on the Spandau inmates. His comment followed reports from Moscow that the Russians might reply favorably if the West suggested release of the Nazis.

Today's quotation: "There is no good arguing with the inevitable. The only argument available with an east wind is to put on your overcoat."

—James Russell Lowell.

Saturday for everyone! Those who get the most accomplished today will concentrate on the constructive side of the picture; making necessary revisions and adjustments. Circumvent pressures, avoid inharmony and be careful about appearances.

Look for your birthdate and birthsign below:

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Work items and service can be forwarded gainfully in the afternoon and evening. Be diplomatic with higher-ups in the morning.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Morning: be realistic, practical. Later: accept revisions in arrangements as opportunities to bulwark weaknesses.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Morning: avoid proposals that drain resources, joint money. Wind things up confidently in the afternoon and evening.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Be self-reliant; don't expect co-operation in the morning. There is much to be done to the afternoon and evening; keep busy.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Attend to employment, service transactions in the afternoon and evening. You can make good headway then. Morning: soft pedal criticisms.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Relax and enjoy yourself as much as possible in the afternoon and evening. Be tactful, economical in the morning.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Don't alter things in the morning; be cheery, optimistic; make progress in the afternoon and in the evening.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Be co-operative; express yourself more freely in the afternoon and evening. Postpone revisions; be cautious in the morning.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Morning: recheck financial transactions; be economical. Improve your pecuniary standings in the afternoon and evening.

Jan. 20 to February 18 (Aquarius)—Get things done in the afternoon and evening; seek, offer help. Don't let others in on your decisions in the morning.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Cement standing with others in the afternoon and evening. Avoid entering into anything that could prove costly in the morning.

Planning ahead—Good for entertainment, sociability, etc.: Sept. 26, 29; Oct. 6, 8, 11, 13.

Argument Delayed In Beer Sale Case

Jan Palak, 1042 Hillside, and Stanley Tomczyk, 1203 Hillside, charged jointly with selling beer, were remanded until Wednesday when argument by city prosecutor Alan Bigelow, supporting the charge, is heard.

The men were charged individually earlier and the charge amended two days ago.

Defence counsel G. A. Lauder argued yesterday that the amendment was without basis in law.

William F. Hunt, Beverly hotel, was convicted of common assault of Mrs. Joan D. Mann and fined $25 in city police court.

Magistrate Henry Hall ruled that assault was a technical one and found that Hunt had entered the woman's room without an invitation and grabbed her by the arms. She was not injured.

Perival Lazaras of Saanichton pleaded guilty to careless driving Sept. 11, when he was involved in an accident, and was fined $35.

Leslie Mutray, 515 Cook, was fined $25 for failing to wear adequate eyeglasses required by his licence.

Kenneth Starck, Sidney, was fined $20 for speeding, and Norma C. Shea, Cobble Hill, was fined $5 for going through a red light.

Government studies show that Americans waste more than 20 per cent of their food through spoilage and overgenerous portions which are not eaten.

Widow Paid $3,500

Mrs. Mary Booth will receive $3,500 from the provincial government as compensation for loss of her home, sold at a tax sale last year for $30.

The amount was agreed upon following the appointment of an arbitrator last month by the government. Originally the cabinet set aside $1,000 to compensate Mrs. Booth or buy the house back from the new owners.

The Westview widow, now living in Vancouver, lost her $3,000 home last year when it was sold for $30 at a tax sale because of a $16 tax bill which was not paid.

The case was first brought up in the legislature by Anthony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) who asked for justice for the woman. The home was sold without Mrs. Booth's knowledge. The tax notices never reached her and were returned to the finance department unopened.

The government subsequently amended the act to ensure that notices are served on taxpayers in person if no acknowledgement is received from the written notice.

Later the cabinet also approved a special vote of $1,000 either as compensation for Mrs. Booth or to buy back the house from the new owners. Both refused the $1,000 and an arbitrator was appointed.

Best Bet—Captain Scott Sleeper—Beyond Reach

Weather clear, track fast First post 2 p.m.

Sal and Sam At the Races

Racing comes back to Vancouver Island after an absence of seven years with an eight-race card at Sandown park, Sidney. Sal and Sam, confirmed enthusiasts of the Sport of Kings, are going to have a flutter a day for the two-week meet and are starting with a roll of $20 each.

Sam's the darning type, a natural born handicapper, and although he hasn't been picking them for seven years, knows he's just good enough to bet them on the nose and increase the family fortunes. Sal's the cautious type who picks them by color, cute names, the flash of the jockey's silks and intuition. She'll make one place-bet each day.

For opening day, Sam's convinced that MARSHALL F, running in the third race at a mile and 70 yards, has the early speed to lead the pack and the stamina to stay there to the wire. Ridden by Jockey Suarez and posted at 116 pounds, Marshall F will carry Sam's first $2. A win here should return a good figure as Marshall F is highly unlikely to go to the post a favorite.

With the weather man predicting a perfect day, clear weather and a fast track, Sal's going for a well-rated sprinter in the second race of six furlongs. She'll place her $2 on Western Man with Jockey Jim Lynn up. This is the race with the Quinella pool but Sal will stay with the place-bet only.

Mother Bound, Robbed

With her baby in her arms, Victoria housewife Mrs. Beatrice Yates was menaced by a youth with a knife in her home last night and tied to a kitchen chair, she told police.

The youth escaped with $3 in loose cash, she said.

Mrs. Yates, 1716 Lee, whose husband is away at sea with the navy, freed herself 15 minutes later.

The youth, aged between 17 and 19, knocked at the back door shortly after Mrs. Yates reached home after shopping with the baby.

When she opened the door, with the baby in her arms, he walked straight in holding a large clasp knife, Mrs. Yates said.

He took the baby from her, still with the knife in his hand, and laid it in the nearby crib.

Then he motioned her to a chair and tied her to it with the baby's diapers.

He made her fasten a piece of sticking plaster over her mouth. Not once did he threaten her as to what he might do with the knife.

He scooped some loose cash into his pocket from the mantel-piece.

He also picked up one or two trinkets before hurrying off, Mrs. Yates told police.

After freeing herself Mrs. Yates called police from a neighbor's house.

Police over a wide area were alerted with the marauder's description.

Door Still Ajar

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada does not believe the door is yet closed on President Eisenhower's plan for mutual aerial inspection and swapping of defence blueprints with Russia.

Health Minister Paul Martin, chief of the Canadian UN delegation, said Friday night that Premier Bulganin's letter to Eisenhower dealing with the plan was not "at the moment" regarded as a rejection.

Martin, referring to a Bulganin complaint that the UN disarmament sub-committee was making little progress in its talks here, contended that "even a little progress is noteworthy, and this measure of progress has been made."

The Canadian delegate noted that the question of aerial photography outside the United States and Russia, dealt with in Bulganin's letter, had been brought up at Friday's meeting of the sub-committee.

Martin said the Canadian government would consider any requests made of it "in order to make the (Eisenhower) proposal more widespread in its application." This would apply to the aerial reconnaissance formula. It was understood that the United States would supply the Russians with blueprints of its Canadian bases on its own initiative.

Ensign Faces Theft Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Ensign David J. Page, disbursing officer of the carrier U.S.S. Wasp, was formally charged Friday with theft in connection with some $70,000 missing from the ship's funds. The officer is missing too.

The 23-year-old ensign failed to return from a week-end liberty last Monday and the navy said a check of his accounts disclosed the huge shortage.

The Admiral's in a Flap

Even Admiral Sir Hercules Hewitt, KCB, of the Royal Navy, is unable to fend off the two flappers turned loose aboard the cruiser Falcon in "The Middle Watch," a fast-paced comedy which opens the Victoria Theatre Guild season in Langham Court Theatre at 8.15 tonight. Len Lauk is the shocked admiral who never does solve the frontal attack of flappers Margaret Dewdney, left, and Cynthia Lauk.

Scores Killed

Argentina's New Rulers Mow Down All Opposition

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Scores of Peron supporters were killed or injured in Argentina Friday night in hostile demonstrations that occurred only hours after Gen. Eduardo Lonardi was sworn in as provisional president.

Argentina's new government called out armored cars and made ready air force bombers to quell spreading incidents, and machine-guns were rattling in the direction of Buenos Aires, southern outskirts.

The fledgling government rushed armored units to break up riots in Rosario, Argentina's second city, by supporters of ousted dictator Juan Peron. The authorities warned the rioters bombs would be dropped on Rosario if order was not restored.

Troops fired light field guns and machine-guns at the Peronista crowds, who invaded the centre of the city, damaging anything they could lay their hands on. Rosario, population 500,000, is about 180 miles northwest of here.

Unofficial estimates put the number of dead in Rosario at 20 and the total of wounded at 40, before order was restored.

Tear gas bombs were dropped on the area by planes, and the authorities warned Friday night that anyone seen on the streets after 8 p.m. would be shot on sight.

A Buenos Aires radio station Friday night broadcast an announcement that the military commander and provisional head of the provincial administration of Mendoza, western Argentina, has ordered all workers to report for duty immediately, or stand trial as saboteurs.

Peron was still reported to be aboard a Paraguayan gunboat outside Buenos Aires awaiting a safe conduct from Lonardi.

Reliable sources said he will not be allowed to leave until he has signed documents handing over his reputed fabulous wealth here and abroad.

Surprise To City

SIU Threatens To Tie Up All Ferries, Steamships

A strike called for midnight Sunday threatens to stop all CPR steamship and ferry service to and from Vancouver Island.

Some 450 seamen, members of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL-TLC), plan to walk off 11 passenger and freight vessels and three coastal barges after the last runs tomorrow night, to back up demands for a 12½-per-cent increase in basic wages and overtime rates.

Affected on Vancouver Island will be the Victoria-Vancouver, Victoria-Seattle, and Nanaimo-Vancouver runs of the CPR's Princess boats.

The only direct passenger link between Victoria and Vancouver will be through Trans-Canada Air Lines. But Islanders will still be able to reach the Mainland through Black Ball Lines' Nanaimo-Vancouver service and Washington State Ferries' Sidney-Anacortes service.

Norman Cunningham, port agent for the union, said in Vancouver last night that the only thing that can avert the strike Sunday is sudden acceptance of the union's demands.

But a CPR spokesman last night said no further negotiations were planned at present.

He said the strike threat "resulted from rejection by the union of a board of conciliation award. In its award the board could find no justification for an increase in basic rates of pay, but recommended an upward adjustment in overtime rates.

"The company accepted the conciliation board findings, notwithstanding that in recent years revenues of the B.C. Coast Service have failed to meet the expense by a substantial margin."

The sudden strike announcement took transportation officials by surprise yesterday.

"We will look into it immediately," said H. G. Swendson, administrative assistant of Washington State Ferries.

His company operates the Kalakala on the Victoria-Port Angeles run which is scheduled to cease operation the end of this month, and the Klickitat on the Sidney-Anacortes run, which is scheduled to stop Oct. 1.

Mr. Swendson said his company would consider keeping its services going if necessary.

He said at this time of the year the Sidney-Anacortes run could handle twice as many passengers and cars as it normally does. The Klickitat has accommodation for more than 500 passengers and 85 cars and trucks with an 11-foot clearance. It makes two round trips daily to Anacortes, which is about 70 miles from Vancouver.

George Paulin of Black Ball lines said his company would continue to operate 10 round trips daily between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Wallace Courtney, manager of TCA operations in Victoria, said the strike presents a "serious problem for the whole of the community," and added that TCA would "move in to meet the essential requirements within the limits of our capabilities."

G. F. Dunn, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said directors of the chamber will meet Monday.

CAME AS SHOCK

"The news that the SIU would precipitate a strike on such short notice came as a shock to me," he said.

"It will be a very serious matter for Victoria," said Hector Crombie, managing secretary of the chamber. "We depend on that service. If such a strike is called with disregard for the public convenience and necessity it would warrant some strong protest from civic and business leaders in the community."

TIE-UP IN 1950

The CPR's coast service was tied up in 1950 as an indirect effect of the railway strike.

Mr. Cunningham said union members voted Friday almost unanimously in favor of the strike. "We negotiated in good faith, but we couldn't get anywhere with them," he said.

More than 1,000 shipboard workers will be affected by the strike and an undetermined number of longshoremen in Vancouver, Nanaimo and Victoria will also be put out of work.

Also affected will be the steamship Queen of the North, operated jointly by the CPR and CNR on the Vancouver - Alaska run.

Present monthly wage for seamen ranges from $175 to $215 for engine room workers, and $200 to $210 for deckhands.

The dispute between the seamen and the CPR has gone on for more than a year. The conciliation hearing was held in June, 1954, and the board's ruling was handed down last November.

STRIKE SETTLED

Earlier this month, a two-month strike by 350 SIU members against Union Steamships Ltd. ended after mediation produced a $19-a-month raise.

Call Girls Work Within the Law

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A veteran vice-squad detective said here Friday that a careful, independent call girl could operate without breaking the law.

Det. John Dyer, of the morality squad, who testifying at the 28th session of the royal commission investigating the administration and conduct of Vancouver's 750-man police force.

Under cross-examination by Jay Gould, counsel for Police Chief Walter Mulligan, Det. Dyer admitted that only a revision of the Criminal Code could break the call girl system, in which a prostitute is called by telephone to the customer.

"A carefully-operating call girl is committing no crime, is she?" Mr. Gould asked.

"If no one is living on the avails, she has her own list and only answers her own telephone on her own premises, she is breaking no law when she is paid by her prospective customer for what she does there?"

The detective agreed, he said he had been 20 years on the Vancouver force and found that recent changes in the Criminal Code of Canada had made it increasingly difficult to obtain vagrancy and prostitution convictions.

Romance with Ulterior Motive — Heir Cancels Taxes

Nation Seeks Bride for Its Prince

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UP)—His Serene Highness Prince Rainier III will fly to the United States this fall and all 21,000 of his subjects are hoping he brings back a bride.

A beautiful one, preferably. But more important, one willing to settle down and have children.

Monaco, the tiniest of Europe's tiny independent states and home of the famous Monte Carlo gambling casino, has a good reason for wanting the 32-year-old prince to get married.

As long as he stays single everyone here faces the possibility of paying income tax.

At present Monegasque citizens pay no direct taxes and live in happy independence supported by their small industries and the tourists who come to gamble and look at the Mediterranean. But if their prince should die without an heir their principality will automatically revert to France—and French tax collectors.

The need to prvent such a disaster has become more acute in recent months. The tourist trade has been falling off, and in August the country's biggest bank had to close its doors due to government's heavy losses in the failure of a commercial television venture.

Matchmaking for the prince is therefore a semi-official pastime in Monaco, and the latest rumor is that Prince Rainier has more than a movie fan's interest in American actress Grace Kelly. He met her last year when she was on the Riviera filming "To Catch a Thief."

Miss Kelly has never let it be known what she thinks of Prince Rainier or the possibility of moving into his 200-room yellow stone palace.

The last person to be linked romantically with the prince was Gisele Pascal, a French film actress. Their romance wavered for years, but Gisele finally went back to Paris and Rainier went back to his yacht and sports cars.

Last winter an American co-ed, Jo Ann Stork, came all the way from Alton, Ill., to see the prince after she read in a magazine that he was interested in American girls. The prince took her for a ride in his red Jaguar and poured champagne for her in his private bar, but nothing came of it.

Officially, the prince's trip to America Nov. 19 is for a medical check-up at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. If the gossip columnists are right, he probably will call up Grace Kelly, too.

The last time Prince Rainier went on a trip his homecoming was a disappointment to his subjects. All he brought home was 32 chimpanzees, baboons, marmosets and other animals and birds for a new national zoo.

CONVICTIONS DIFFICULT

The detective agreed, he said he had been 20 years on the Vancouver force and found that recent changes in the Criminal Code of Canada had made it increasingly difficult to obtain vagrancy and prostitution convictions.

The detective said he had never heard of any gambling pay-offs in connection with the police department.

"To be effective all the squad would have to be in on the protection. Otherwise, the others might pull a speak raid," he said.

Det. Fred Dougherty, president of Local 112, City Policemen's Federal Labor Union (TLC), said friction arose between him and the chief because "Mr. Mulligan was using 19th-century tactics."

"The union is democratic, like a trade union," Mr. Gould said, "and the chief is military in his police beliefs. That is the basic difference between you and the chief?"

Det. Dougherty said it was.

No. 1 Wife Sails For U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Pakistani sources said Friday the first wife of Pakistan's ambassador to the United States, Mohammed Ali, is on her way to New York on the liner Queen Elizabeth.

She is Hamida Mohammed Ali, 40. With her two sons she boarded the transatlantic liner at Southampton Thursday and is due to arrive Sept. 27.

Mohammed Ali, 46, flew to the United States to take up his Washington post last weekend. He was accompanied by his No. 2 wife, Begum Aliya Mohammed Ali, 28, the former Alya Saddy of Wardlow, Alta.

Moslem law allows marriage to more than one wife but widespread demonstrations of protest took place in Pakistan when Mohammed Ali, then prime minister, married a second time last April 2. The protesters were mainly women.

By All-White Jury

Whites Cleared Of Negro's Death

SUMNER, Miss. (AP) —Two white men accused of killing a 14-year-old Negro boy who allegedly whistled at one of their wives were acquitted of a murder charge Friday by an all-white jury which spent an hour and eight minutes deliberating their fate.

Jury foreman J. A. Shaw Jr., a young farmer, said the jury took three ballots before agreeing on the innocence of the two defendants, Roy Bryant, 24, and John W. Milan, 36.

The deciding factor, Shaw said, was what the jury considered the state's failure to prove identity of the body pulled from the Tallahatchie river. The state contended the body was that of Emmett Louis Till, a visiting Negro boy from Chicago.

"REASONABLE DOUBT"

Despite testimony by the boy's mother and uncle that it was Till's body which was taken from the river, Shaw said: "There was reasonable doubt." There was other testimony during the five-day trial that the body was floated and decomposed beyond identification when taken from the river.

Just before the case went to the jury, defence counsel John Whitten said: "There are people in the United States who want to destroy the custom and way of life of southern white people and southern colored people.

"There are people out to put us at odds who are willing to go as far as possible, to commit any crime to widen the gap between us.

"If these people had the opportunity to create a commotion, to stir up a trial such as this and focus national attention on Mississippi and focus national attention on the strained relations here, they would do it."

"CAN'T COMPLAIN"

Ending state arguments, Robert Smith III said: "I tell you, gentlemen, that Emmett Till was entitled to his constitutional rights, he was entitled to his liberty and once we go taking away his rights then we are on the defensive and we can't complain what people do to us."

District Attorney Gerald Chatham said the worst the boy deserved, if he insulted white womanhood was a "little beating" with a razor strap.

Door Still Ajar

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada does not believe the door is yet closed on President Eisenhower's plan for mutual aerial inspection and swapping of defence blueprints with Russia.

Health Minister Paul Martin, chief of the Canadian UN delegation, said Friday night that Premier Bulganin's letter to Eisenhower dealing with the plan was not "at the moment" regarded as a rejection.

Martin, referring to a Bulganin complaint that the UN disarmament sub-committee was making little progress in its talks here, contended that "even a little progress is noteworthy, and this measure of progress has been made."

The Canadian delegate noted that the question of aerial photography outside the United States and Russia, dealt with in Bulganin's letter, had been brought up at Friday's meeting of the sub-committee.

Martin said the Canadian government would consider any requests made of it "in order to make the (Eisenhower) proposal more widespread in its application." This would apply to the aerial reconnaissance formula. It was understood that the United States would supply the Russians with blueprints of its Canadian bases on its own initiative.

Ensign Faces Theft Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Ensign David J. Page, disbursing officer of the carrier U.S.S. Wasp, was formally charged Friday with theft in connection with some $70,000 missing from the ship's funds. The officer is missing too.

The 23-year-old ensign failed to return from a week-end liberty last Monday and the navy said a check of his accounts disclosed the huge shortage.

Jury Frees Constable

TORONTO (CP)—A jury Friday freed constable Bruce Priestman of suburban East York township, whose shot at a stolen automobile was said to have led to the death of two student nurses Aug. 1 and the wounding of a car-theft suspect.

'Kiss Kiss Very Very' Note Real Surprise for Granny

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Eleven amorous Frenchmen are in for a big surprise today.

They have been looking forward to meeting beautiful "Miss" Alice Rolf, an Englishwoman whose message they had read. The message, asking "a pleasant young man" to write to her, was found in a bottle on the French coast and published in a French newspaper.

Friday the lady in question told the story. She is 54 years old, mother of seven children and has nine grandchildren.

Her son-in-law, basking on the beach of this Channel resort last month, scribbled off the message as a joke and put it in a bottle without telling her.

Mrs. Rolf shook her head sadly: "My husband is delighted but I cannot help feeling sorry for the French boys," she said. "We shall have to find some young girls to write to them.

A 20-year-old student signed off his letter: "Bye bye Alice and kiss kiss very very."

Duke Drops Search For Armada's Gold

TOBERMORY, Scotland (Reuters)—The Duke of Argyll, who has sunk a fortune in trying to rai a 400-year-old Spanish treasure ship from its ocean bed, gave up the battle Friday.

For years, the 52-year-old duke, wealthy head of the clan Campbell, has been searching for the Duque de Florencia, the pay ship of the defeated Spanish armada. Legend says it went to the bottom of this Scottish bay 400 years ago.

Under a royal charter, signed by King Charles I, the duke has rightful claim to anything salvaged from the galleon. His ancestors before him have been after the treasure since 1683, when one hired a man to go down in a primitive diving bell to search for the wreck.

The treasure, if it is as real as old Spanish records claim, is considerable: "30 millions of cash hidden under ye sell of ye gun roome."

This summer, the duke figured he was almost certain to discover the secrets of the Duque de Florencia. Using the most modern salvage equipment and frogmen divers, he at last pin-pointed the galleon's burial ground.

As the weeks went by, divers found muddy, rusting sword scabbards and earthenware—but no gold and no glittering crown.

Last week the duke set a deadline. He gave his frogmen divers until Friday to strike gold.

They failed to reach paydirt and Friday night the men were paid off and the salvage ship was being made ready to sail away next week.

Romance with Ulterior Motive — Heir Cancels Taxes

Nation Seeks Bride for Its Prince

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UP)—His Serene Highness Prince Rainier III will fly to the United States this fall and all 21,000 of his subjects are hoping he brings back a bride.

A beautiful one, preferably. But more important, one willing to settle down and have children.

Monaco, the tiniest of Europe's tiny independent states and home of the famous Monte Carlo gambling casino, has a good reason for wanting the 32-year-old prince to get married.

As long as he stays single everyone here faces the possibility of paying income tax.

At present Monegasque citizens pay no direct taxes and live in happy independence supported by their small industries and the tourists who come to gamble and look at the Mediterranean. But if their prince should die without an heir their principality will automatically revert to France—and French tax collectors.

The need to prvent such a disaster has become more acute in recent months. The tourist trade has been falling off, and in August the country's biggest bank had to close its doors due to government's heavy losses in the failure of a commercial television venture.

Matchmaking for the prince is therefore a semi-official pastime in Monaco, and the latest rumor is that Prince Rainier has more than a movie fan's interest in American actress Grace Kelly. He met her last year when she was on the Riviera filming "To Catch a Thief."

Miss Kelly has never let it be known what she thinks of Prince Rainier or the possibility of moving into his 200-room yellow stone palace.

The last person to be linked romantically with the prince was Gisele Pascal, a French film actress. Their romance wavered for years, but Gisele finally went back to Paris and Rainier went back to his yacht and sports cars.

Last winter an American co-ed, Jo Ann Stork, came all the way from Alton, Ill., to see the prince after she read in a magazine that he was interested in American girls. The prince took her for a ride in his red Jaguar and poured champagne for her in his private bar, but nothing came of it.

Officially, the prince's trip to America Nov. 19 is for a medical check-up at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. If the gossip columnists are right, he probably will call up Grace Kelly, too.

The last time Prince Rainier went on a trip his homecoming was a disappointment to his subjects. All he brought home was 32 chimpanzees, baboons, marmosets and other animals and birds for a new national zoo.
